GREECE SOON TO BE FREED; CORINTH HELD

BRITISH EXPECT NO OPPOSITION IN ATHENS AREA

BY NOLAN NORGAARD
Rome, Oct. 10 (AP)—British and Greek forces held the city of Corinth tonight as a base for the clearing of Athens, 40 miles distant, and the remainder of the Greek mainland. The full liberation appeared to be only a matter of time.

Headquarters announced that German garrison units were withdrawing steadily northward, omitting even the rearward actions so characteristic of Nazi retreats.

The cleanup of the Peloponnese was quick and largely bloodless.

Garrison In Flight
A small force of British troops entered Corinth yesterday and found the entire German garrison gone. There was nothing to indicate the British would encounter any determined opposition along the rest of the route to Athens.

The liberation of Athens and its port of Piraeus (Piræus) will open the way for sending in food, medical supplies and other needed essentials for the civilian population.

The Greek government announced it was in Italy ready to go to the homeland in the immediate future.

Some enemy personnel apparently remained in the Athens area, but it was believed they were more interested in fleeing northward than in fighting in Greece.

Great Welcome Given
RAF Wellingtons raided three Athens airfields last night and encountered only light flak. The only planes observed on the fields were 10 transports sent to remove Nazi personnel.

Allied land forces meanwhile had begun an assault on the little southern Albanian port of Sarande, a supply base for the Nazi garrison on the island of Corfu.

British, aided by Partisans, took more than 100 prisoners and suffered only light casualties, in the first few hours of the attack.

British troops and Greek Partisans were given a triumphal welcome as they marched across the southern coast of the Gulf of Corinth to enter the port city.

Flowers, olive branches and fruit were showered on them.

The Germans' Greek security battalions in the city of 20,000 surrendered after a conference with the mayor, and were taken to concentration points.

Allied naval forces reported the sinking of several enemy vessels attempting to evacuate Nazi personnel from Aegean island garrisons.

Guns Of Fifth Army Trained Upon Bologna

BY LYNN HEINZERLING

Rome, Oct. 10 (AP)—American Fifth army troops, toiling slowly forward through mud, rain and stout German positions, are within heavy artillery range of Bologna, vital German communications and supply depot in Northern Italy. Allied headquarters disclosed today.

The weather over the entire Italian front kept aerial activity to a minimum and limited ground action on most sectors to patrol operations.

American doughboys slogging along highway 65, the main Florence-Bologna route, captured Anconella, Mount Castellazzi, Lavelle and Barbarola, within an area 10 miles south of Bologna and within the artillery range of the city's hub of railways and trunk roads.

To the east of the Americans, Indian troops reached a point two miles south of highway 9, a lateral road between Bologna and Rimini, and brought it under range of artillery and mortar fire.

The British already are astride the highway at the Adriatic end, but it remains useful to Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring in moving German troops and supplies between the Fifth and British Eighth armies.

Eighth Stalled
West of the Americans Brazilian forces in the Ligua coastal area pressed forward, supported by heavy artillery and mortar fire.

Eighth army troops still were stalled on the banks of the Fluminio river in the Adriatic sector. The stream, which was only a pebbly riverbed two weeks ago, now is reported from 30 to 35 feet wide. One Allied patrol managed to cross it and probe German defenses and return, headquarters said.

A few Thunderbolts of the Mediterranean air force flew through storms and attacked targets in the Modena area.

BOMBS WRECK BERLIN CABLES
City Without Telephone Service; Steel Works Area Hammered

BY ROBERT EUNSON
London, Oct. 10 (AP)—Formations of fast Allied bombers were over western Germany tonight, the Berlin radio reported, after a day of bad weather that kept most of the U. S. Eighth Air Force and RAF planes grounded on this side of the channel.

Berlin was reported without telephone service today, and Stockholm dispatches said the German capital had been without long-distance service since Friday, when about 1,000 American heavy bombers hit the city and wrecked telephone cables.

The German radio acknowledged that the steel works at Bochum was damaged considerably Monday night by an attack of 500 RAF Lancaster heavy bombers.

Returning to their old tactics of saturation bombing, the RAF dumped thousands of incendiaries and many tons of explosives on the German industrial city and left fires which crewmen watched for many miles on the way home through cloud and fog.

Bochum was shattered by a big raid September 29, 1943. In the intervening year the Todt Construction organization had been able to get some of the major industries going again, thus setting the stage for Monday night's blow.

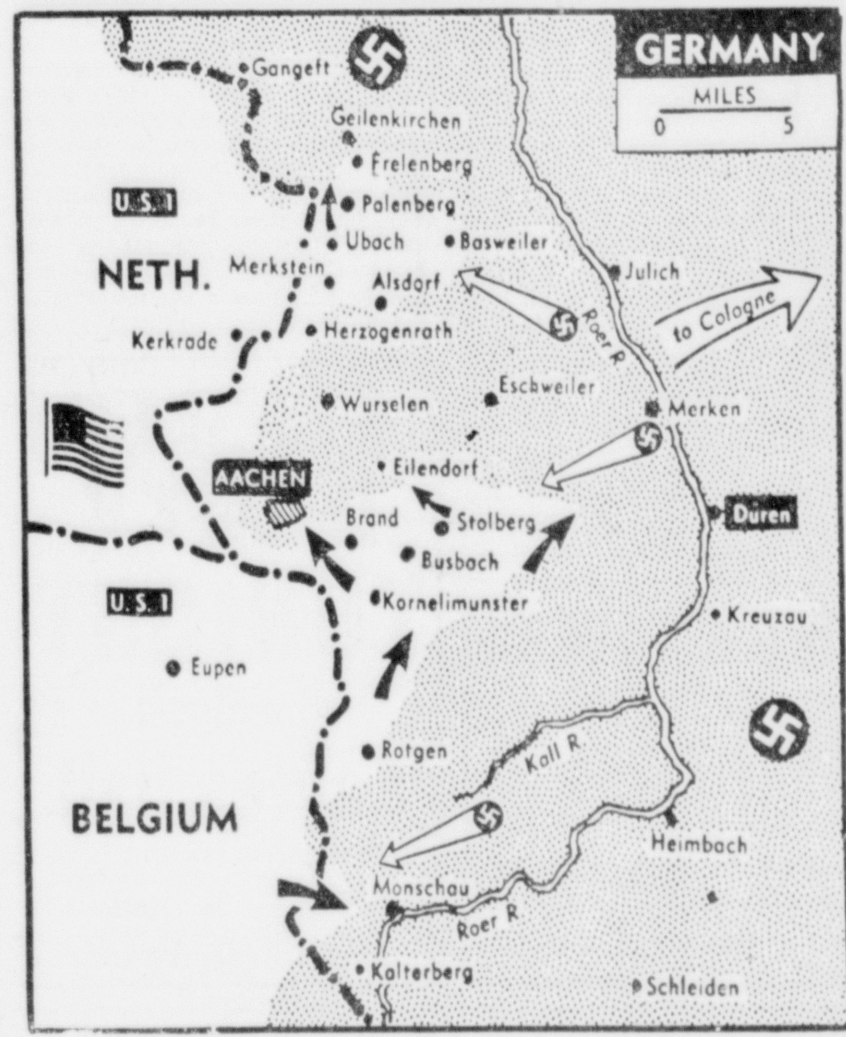

Gerald L. K. Smith Finally Gets Gas For His Campaign

Detroit, Oct. 10 (AP)—Birkett L. Williams, OPA regional administrator, ordered Detroit Ration Board 35 to allot Gerald L. K. Smith 633 gallons of gasoline today for campaigning in Michigan.

Smith is the presidential candidate of the America First party.

The board previously denied Smith gasoline for a national campaign, a decision that was upheld by the OPA's regional office on the grounds that Smith's name was on the ballot in two states only.

Gasoline, in smaller quantity, for a Michigan campaign similarly was denied by the board today. Williams telephoned an order from Washington, however, countermmanding that decision.

AACHEN DOOMED—Hemmed in by American troops and armor, the historic German frontier city of Aachen faces destruction today unless its Nazi garrison accepts a First Army ultimatum to surrender. The German commander in the city was given 24 hours to give up. If he refuses, Yank planes and artillery will start a ruthless destruction of the industrial town early this morning. With Aachen captured, the First Army will have a solid broadened bridgehead for a possible all-out drive toward Cologne and the Rhine.

Peace After Victory Talks Continued By Stalin And Churchill

BY DANIEL DE LUCE
Moscow, Oct. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill came to Moscow for talks with Premier Stalin which should lead to guarantees of peace after victory, it was learned in responsible quarters tonight.

The British and Russian leaders spent three hours together in the Kremlin last night and met again tonight at a gala banquet arranged by the Soviet government and attended by the entire delegation and the U. S. and British ambassadors and envoys from the British dominions.

The willingness with which Stalin met Churchill was indicative of the Soviet marshal's readiness to discuss the mighty problems which must inevitably face the United Nations after the war.

High on the agenda is the Balkan situation—what to do to make sure the German and pro-Fascist spirit is eliminated in southeastern Europe.

The question of what to do with Germany is, of course, one of the biggest topics before the United Nations.

There are all kinds of opinions, and it is believed a free exchange of ideas between Churchill and Stalin will do much to shape the course of events.

Also prominent on the list of topics, it is understood, are discussions involving oil.

The two also are expected to talk about Poland. Churchill's attitude on Poland is well known because he has spoken recently in a fashion that met with Soviet approval, especially when he said Russia had a right to expect a friendly Poland.

ITALY IS AIDED BY U. S. DOLLARS
Equivalent Of Lire Used To Pay Troops Will Buy Supplies Here

Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt announced tonight the United States is making available to the Italian government dollars equivalent to the Italian lire issued to pay American troops in Italy.

"The dollars * * * will be used by the Italian government to pay for essential supplies purchased in this country for use in liberated Italy," Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement.

The step was taken after consultation with the British government, Mr. Roosevelt said, adding that Britain will continue to provide its share of an agreed program of supplies to Italy but under different financial arrangements.

"The funds which I now am making available will enable the Italian government under control of appropriate Allied authorities to obtain in this country other essential civilian supplies and to continue to obtain essential supplies after the U. S. army program (or relief) ceases."

When the Allied troops invaded Italy, American soldiers were paid in American-printed lire so that they might easily make purchases in Italy.

SURPRISE ASSAULT ONLY 200 MILES FROM JAPAN

BY RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

A bold American carrier plane strike in great force against Japan's Ryukyu Islands just 200 miles south of the Nippon homeland, during which 58 ships and small craft were sunk or damaged and more than 89 planes destroyed, was reported by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz Tuesday.

The communiqué said one destroyer was definitely sunk and one damaged as the carrier planes hit Monday (U. S. time). A mine sweeper and a submarine tender were sent down by aerial bombs. A tanker probably was sunk. The other vessels destroyed or damaged included three oil tankers, cargo and coastal ships, luggers and small craft.

Enemy Off Guard
The Yank airmen, taking the enemy by complete surprise, shot down 14 Japanese planes and destroyed more than 75 on the ground. They blasted and damaged buildings and defense installations on the islands, leaving many fires in their wake.

Not a single American surface ship was damaged and "plane losses were light."

Carriers in the attack, from Adm. William F. Halsey's mighty Third fleet, were commanded by Adm. Marc A. Mitscher.

The Ryukyus guard the gateway to the East China Sea. The island chain runs from north to southwest between Japan proper and Formosa, 500 miles east of the China coast. They are 1,400 miles northwest of Saipan, closest American land base, and 1,600 miles west of Marcus Island which was attacked by warships of the Pacific fleet all day last Sunday.

Closer Bases Wanted
The aerial smash in the Ryukyus came less than a day after Admiral Nimitz told newsmen "we must make landings on the China coast to secure a land mass close enough to the Japanese Empire to enable us to employ the air forces which will be at our disposal." Eventually, he added, American power will hit the China coast.

On the Central Tunisian Front, March, 1943—The other night I was sitting in the room of Lieut. Col. Sam Gormly, a Flying Fortress commander from Los Angeles.

We were looking over a six-week-old copy of an American picture magazine, the latest to reach us here.

It was full of photos and stories of the war, dramatic tales from the Solomons, from Russia, and right from our own African front.

Pyle

The magazine fascinated me and, when I had finished, I felt an animation about the war I hadn't felt in weeks.

For in the magazine the war seemed romantic and exciting, full of heroics and vitality. I know it really is, and yet I don't seem capable of feeling it. Only in the magazine from America can I catch the real spirit of the war over here.

One of the pictures was the long concrete quay where we landed in Africa. It gave me a little tingle to look at it. For some perverse reason it was more thrilling to look at the picture than it was to march along the dock itself that first day.

"I don't know what the hell's the matter with me," I said. "Here we are right at the front, and yet the war isn't dramatic to me at all."

When I said that, Major Quint Quick of Bellingham, Wash., rose up from his bed onto his elbow. Quick is a bomber squadron leader, and has been in as many fights as any bomber pilot over here. He is admired and respected for what he's been through. He said:

"It isn't to me either. I know it should be, but it isn't. It's just hard work, and all I want is to finish it and get back home."

Riga Is Cut Off; 150,000 Germans Trapped By Reds

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Red army drove a band of steel across Lithuania to the Baltic Sea 14 miles above Memel today, cutting off the German garrison in Riga and trapping probably 150,000 Nazi troops in Lithuania and Latvia.

A Soviet communiqué announced that Russian forces had crashed through to the sea at Palanga, in Lithuania on the north border of Memelland, and captured more than 300 other towns and villages north and southeast of Memel, virtually sealing the fate of that seaport and historic bone of international contention which Germany annexed in the spring of 1939.

Ring Draws Tighter
The breakthrough did not appear to be a tenuous one of the sort made and then wiped out west of Riga during the summer. Places captured included Kretinga, large railway station 12 miles northeast of Memel, and Darbenai and Lenkimai, seven and ten miles from the sea northeast of Memel, and Gargzdai, only nine miles due east of Memel. The effective width of the Soviet barrier north of Memel appeared to be about 20 miles.

The siege ring also was drawn tighter around Riga, long-threatened capital of Latvia, with capture of Gauja, railway station 11 miles north, Ropazi, 10 miles northeast and Saulkaine, 12 miles southeast.

Million Men Used
Gen. Ivan C. Bagration and his First Baltic army thus had caught the German groupings not only in Riga but around Leipais and Ventpils, two other Baltic Latvian ports, and posed an immediate threat to the narrow strip of Memelland, and to the northern section of East Prussia.

The Germans were reported to have a concentration of armor in the northern out pocket which probably would lead any attempt to break out. The Berlin radio

NOLAN RAPPED BY STATE BAR
Court Asked To Refuse Reinstatement For Gogebic Lawyer

Lansing, Oct. 10 (AP)—The board of commissioners of the State Bar of Michigan has asked the supreme court to deny the motion of Michael E. Nolan for reinstatement as a practicing lawyer—another in a series of events stemming from his ouster by the legislature from office as Gogebic county probate judge.

Nolan was impeached by the house and removed by the senate May 29, 1943, on charges that he charged "grossly excessive" fees to perform secret marriages and waive a state law requiring physical examination of prospective brides and grooms.

In a brief filed with the court, the board of commissioners asserted that Nolan's conduct and actions since his removal indicate he lacks a "sense of moral responsibility which must be possessed by those with whom the administration of justice is entrusted."

It alleged that he resigned from the practice of law after disbarment proceedings had been instituted against him subsequent to his removal from office, and that if the disbarment proceedings had been pressed, they would have resulted in disciplinary action "more severe than mere suspension from the practice of law for one year."

The brief was signed by Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton, Harry W. Jackson, his assistant, and Albert E. Blashfield, executive secretary of the State Bar of Michigan.

GERMAN CITY IS ENCIRCLED BY U. S. GUNS
ULTIMATUM HANDED ENEMY TROOPS IN STRONGHOLD

BY HOWARD COWAN
London, Oct. 10 (AP)—The historic German frontier city of Aachen is threatened with "ruthless" destruction by American artillery and bombing planes beginning at 10:50 a. m. tomorrow (5:50 a. m. E. W. T.) if the commander of some 1,500 enemy troops in the surrounded stronghold declines an ultimatum delivered to him today to surrender unconditionally.

For the first time in the war a German city, rich in tradition, faced obliteration by a land army. It was the first great test of whether the Germans were willing to see their cities destroyed one by one in carrying out Hitler's orders to fight to the death.

No Dicker
Aachen, whose pre-war population of 165,000 had been reduced to fewer than 15,000 civilians by evacuation and which already was badly damaged by nearly a month of fighting on its outskirts, was ringed by a tremendous concentration of American artillery—sufficient to smash the city to the desolation of Stalingrad in a short time.

The order to surrender unconditionally within 24 hours was delivered to the German command by three Americans under a white flag of truce, while 200 artillery shells bursting over the city showered down thousands of leaflets urging German soldiers and civilians to persuade those responsible to "stop useless bloodshed and destruction."

The Nazi garrison commander, whose troops have been holding up the U. S. First army push through Aachen from strong hedging positions, was told there could be no middle ground for him, a clear indication that Allied forces have no intention of dicker with the enemy at any point as they thrust into Germany.

Messengers blindfolded the city Aachen is now completely surrounded by American forces, who are sufficiently equipped with both air power and artillery to destroy the city if necessary, the ultimatum said. "We shall take the city either by receiving its immediate unconditional surrender or by attacking and destroying it."

Two American lieutenants and a private who went into Aachen and delivered the demand were taken before they were taken through the streets to a command post. They said they did not hear the voices of women or children, the entire time they were in the city.

News of the ultimatum was broadcast. (Continued on Page Ten)

HEALTH REPORT MADE TO BOARD

Dr. Elstein Describes Activities Of Delta
County Unit

The Delta county board of supervisors Monday received from Dr. M. A. Elstein, county health department director, a report of the department's activities to August 31 of this year. The report was in micrographed form and copies were presented to the board members.

Work of the public health nurses in the county was praised, and the value of the county sanitarian's activities was pointed out. Briefly, functions of the health department were described as:

- 1.—To prevent the transmission of communicable diseases.
- 2.—To protect against communicable diseases by immunization and vaccination.
- 3.—To encourage healthy and sanitary living conditions. To August 31 of this year the nurses made 473 field visits to communicable diseases cases; 528 children were vaccinated for smallpox; 470 children were immunized against diphtheria; 2 cases were immunized against typhoid; 132 infants were immunized against whooping cough.

Two cases of venereal diseases were turned over to local physicians for treatment. Their contacts were checked and measures taken to eliminate all sources of contamination.

In tuberculosis control 67 cases were referred to the department. 58 persons were given tuberculin tests by the department, and 21 cases were found to be active and were admitted to the sanatorium for treatment.

Two hundred and forty field nursing visits were made in maternity service cases; and 414 field visits were made under the heading of infant hygiene care. Hygiene care for children of school and preschool age formed an important part of the department's work. The director examined 1,774 cases of school age children, made 616 inspections. Other work was in the fields of adult hygiene care and crippled children care. The work of the county sanitarian included general sanitation visits to resorts, inspections of public and private water supplies, and sewage disposal conditions. Visits to 119 food handling establishments, to 52 dairy farms, and 23 milk plants were reported by the sanitarian to supervise sanitary conditions.

Two-County Fair Proposal Approved

Iron Mountain — Meeting to hear committee reports before making the annual appropriations and appointments, the county board unanimously approved the recommendation of Nick Ries, chairman of the fair committee, that the Menominee county board be invited to work with Dickinson-Menominee county fair in 1945.

"We had numerous requests for this action from outstanding farmers in Menominee county and if the Menominee county board will cooperate, I see no reason why we can't expand and put on a bigger and better fair next year," Ries said.

Dickinson county has one of the best fair grounds in the U. P. and Menominee county has none. "It costs a lot of money to keep our buildings and grounds in repair, and the greater revenue from a two-county fair would go a long way to pay upkeep costs," Ries said.

Supervisor Osborne asked whether Menominee county farmers would patronize the fair. "Won't it be too far for them to drive?" he asked.

"No," Ries replied. "Menominee county residents will have to drive no further to the fair grounds than do many of our own farmers living in the western half of the county."

Ries was told to bring the proposal before the Menominee county board and report at a later meeting.

SILVERY SMELT COMING BACK

But 1942-43 Deaths Are Still Deep Mystery,
Says Van Oosten

The smelt are coming back to the Great Lakes, but there is still no satisfactory explanation for their mysterious disappearance in the winter of 1942-43. Dr. John Van Oosten, Ann Arbor, coordinator of Great Lakes fisheries, said while on a business visit to Escanaba yesterday.

Commercial fishermen are reporting that they are catching a steadily increasing number of smelt in their nets, according to Dr. Van Oosten, who as a veteran investigator of the Fish and Wildlife Service, has made an extensive study of the silvery osmerus morbus. At Manistique recently, a fisherman came in with 25 pounds of smelt caught in a gang of lake trout nets. The smelt taken in Lake Michigan off Manistique ranged from five to six inches long, and a commercial fisherman at St. Ignace caught a bunch of them, ranging from three to 11 inches in length, indicating there was some survival in all age classes. This is regarded as an encouraging sign by Dr. Van Oosten.

Many Solutions Offered
"There is a lot of interest in the smelt mystery," Dr. Van Oosten said yesterday. "Time magazine published two stories within a month, and I received suggestions from readers from all over the United States and Canada. They had all kinds of interesting solutions to the mystery. One suggested the death of the smelt might have been due to Japanese sabotage. An electrical engineer figured it might be due to electronic waves; another suggested that their lives might have been pulverized by bombing practice on the lakes; and still another mentioned the possibility of mass suicide."

Dr. Van Oosten says that the dead smelt examined showed no signs of injury, and he is inclined to the theory that the fish were attacked by some toxic virus or bacteria, which swept through the large fish population, much the same as a disease epidemic will kill off most of the rabbits in a single year.

What makes Dr. Van Oosten think some unknown disease attacked the smelt is that the dead fish were first found in large numbers in the Saginaw Bay area in September, 1942. Then, the trail of mortality was traced northward to Georgian Bay of Lake Huron. Spreading like a typhus epidemic in dense populations, its destructive effects were noted in the Straits of Mackinac, inland Lake Charlevoix, which has an outlet to Lake Michigan, then along northern Lake Michigan, finally hitting the Green Bay area in February, 1943, when commercial fishermen at Escanaba and Menominee discovered large schools of dead smelt lying at the bottom and others floating on the water when they made holes in the ice.

the disappearing smelt mystery will never be known, Dr. Van Oosten added. Some dead smelt were packed and shipped to Ann Arbor for examination, but no bacteriological tests were made because of the absence of the proper equipment for this purpose. Anyway, the most practical way is to bring the equipment into the field to make the tests on the fish as soon as possible after their death. Dr. Schenberger of the fish division, state of Wisconsin, had planned to bring his portable laboratory equipment to the Green Bay area, but was unable to carry out his plans. Had he been able to make the tests at that time, it is probable that the cause of the smelt deaths might have been ascertained.

Salted Herring Survey
Dr. Van Oosten visited Escanaba while on a tour of Lake Superior and Lake Michigan fishing ports to study salted herring production costs so that OPA will have the information on which to fix a uniform price ceiling on this product. A price ceiling, ranging from three to four cents on salted herring, last year caused the commercial fishing industry to divert mostly all the herring catch of the November-December runs into the fresh frozen fish channels. However, the government did not buy huge quantities of frozen herring, as was expected, and as a result there is the greatest glut in the freezers in history. About two million pounds are still in storage, at a time when the supply should be almost depleted.

The marketing division of the Fish and Wildlife Service is now conducting a sales promotion campaign in an effort to dispose of the frozen herring surplus. During the past couple weeks, activities have been carried on at Pittsburg, which is a center for the distribution of fish products in the states to the south of it. Possibilities for disposing the frozen fish to mink farmers are also being explored. The latter would be at a loss, however, for frozen herring costs are now up to between 12 and 16 cents.

Because of the huge carryover, it is feared that wholesalers and processors will not buy as much herring during the late fall runs, when more than half of the year's catch is taken. The shift to salted herring is also likely to cause an over-production of this particular item, although this may be offset by the fact that present ceilings permit the payment of only about two cents a pound to producers for herring caught for salting purposes. Consequently, commercial fishermen are awaiting word from OPA regarding an increase of the price ceiling on salted herring.

Ceiling on fresh herring were recently eliminated, but price controls remain on frozen herring.

Rising prices on new kegs for the salting of herring, are also a new complicating factor in view of the fact that the producer is allowed to pass a keg ceiling price of only $1.10 each on the wholesale. This is satisfactory to producers who are using old kegs bought for $1.10 or less, but it presents a problem to those who must buy new kegs, recently quoted at $2.40 each, f. o. b. shipping point.

While in Escanaba Dr. Van Oosten conferred with Roy Jensen, member of the fishing industry's OPA advisory committee, and planned to go from Escanaba to Marquette and Munising to confer with other commercial fishermen.

SELECT POTATO SHOW EXHIBITS

Growers Advised On How To Prepare Samples For Contest

Potato growers of Delta county, and in other counties of the Upper Peninsula, are selecting their best potato samples for exhibit in county shows and contests prior to the Upper Peninsula Potato Show to be held in Escanaba October 24-26.

The county shows are being held next week, ending with the Delta county show Saturday, October 21. E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, and superintendent of exhibits for the U. P. show, yesterday advised members of the Escanaba Potato Boosters association on the preparation of show samples.

Show samples for Delta county should be delivered to the state fair grounds on or before Thursday, October 19, Wenner said. The show samples are as follows:

- 1—Certified contest: 128 hand-picked, brushed, 8 ounce potatoes of uniform size and shape. Each potato should be wrapped in a piece of paper and packed tightly in a box or carton.

- 2—Tablestock contest: 100 pounds hand picked, nothing smaller than 2 1/2 inch diameter.
- 3—U. P. contest: Fifty pound hand-picked, nothing smaller than two-inch diameter.

Grandlich Will Speak
James G. Wells, manager of the U. P. Potato Show, has announced that H. J. Grandlich, Chicago, agricultural agent of the Chicago and North Western railway, and Charles Figg, Lansing, commissioner of agriculture, will be speakers at the U. P. show banquet meeting.

Prize winning potatoes of the various county shows will be placed in competition for the grand prizes to be offered at the Escanaba show, which is expected to present one of the best programs in the 15-year history of the institution.

The potatoes will be exhibited at the Coliseum. Premium awards total $900, with extra prizes offered in the certified growers, table stock, 4-H and Smith-Hughes agricultural contests, which promise to be feature attractions of the show. Judges will be H. C. Moore and E. A. Wheeler of the Michigan State College crops department, and H. C. Reilly, Cadillac, president of the Michigan Crop Improvement association.

Officers of the Upper Peninsula Potato Growers association, sponsor of the annual show, are: President, Victor Soderman, Crystal Falls; vice president, Glenn Townsend, Hancock; secretary-treasurer, D. L. Clannahan, Marquette. Members of the board of directors are: One year, Alphonse Verschure, Manistique; John Delongchamps, Champion; Victor Soderman, Crystal Falls; Frank Barron, Gladstone; two years, Otto Lundin, Baraga; Ernest Hamel, Champion; D. L. Clannahan, Marquette; Frank Semmerling, Bessemer; three years, Ted R. McFadden, Cornell; Glenn Townsend, Hancock; Andrew Kline, Stephenson; and D. J. Woods, Newberry.

Dates of the county potato shows have been announced as follows: Luce, Oct. 17; Schoolcraft, and Houghton, Oct. 18; Dickinson and Gogebic, Oct. 19; Menominee and Iron, Oct. 20; and Delta, Oct. 21.

Loyal Jap-Americans Serve Well In Army

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Los Angeles—I've discovered out here what seems to me the silliest piece of deception—self deception, if you want to be charitable—that has yet been injected into this campaign. But at the same time it carries a charge of dynamite dangerous to play with in times like these.

Speakers at several Dewey meetings in California have asserted that the Japanese-American citizens removed from the west coast were relocated in pivotal states in the east so they could vote Democratic and return the New Deal to office. This was part of the talk that Superior Judge Goodwin J. Knight of Los Angeles county made in Sacramento last month in opening the Republican campaign there.

Ninety-five per cent of the relocated Japs are registered Democrats, Judge Knight said. He intimated that their votes in such states as Illinois and Ohio might swing the election.

"That's why they have porterhouse steak and hamburgers and go to the movies," he was quoted as saying.

Incites Race Hatred
Judge Knight tells me he based his statements on a newspaper column he read. He is now, he says, investigating the facts, which would seem to be the reverse of the order followed by responsible office-holders.

On the face of it, the charge is so silly that it would be hardly worth-while refuting it if it were not tied up with the explosive issue of race hatred. The number of Japanese removed was less than 110,000. Of the total, approximately 70 per cent were American citizens by virtue of birth in this country.

Not more than 15,000 to 20,000 at the most, are eligible to vote. They are largely settled in war relocation camps in Utah, Idaho, Colorado and Wyoming. It is highly doubtful if any substantial number have established voting rights in these states, which cannot be considered pivotal.

This is an effort to trade, politically, on the race theme. It will make more difficult the final solution of a problem which for the entire west coast is bound to be grim.

What is to happen to the 75,000 Nisei, the Japanese-American citizens who were removed from their homes in this area in the emergency immediately following Pearl Harbor? That is a question which deeply concerns responsible officials here. So far, they have been unable to get any hint of policy from Washington.

The tragedy of the Nisei is one that cuts deeply into the many fronts of the war, and yet their families are regarded with suspicion and distrust at home.

Good Japs Helpful
Shortly before I left Washington, I talked with a friend just back from the Burma-India theater. He told how, at first, commanders in the field had been reluctant to use the Nisei. Then after they had proved their worth and their loyalty, the demand for them was so great it exceeded the supply.

He told about one little Nisei who had at first been thought too small for combat duty. After a time, however, this pint-sized Japanese-American had persuaded his superior officer to let him go into the field. Absolutely fearless, on one occasion he took 20 Jap prisoners and brought them back alive across a river.

They have been especially valuable, of course, in intelligence and propaganda work. In advance patrols, they often completely deceive the enemy and give us an advantage we could not possibly have otherwise. What is disheartening to these American soldiers is to get letters from home telling of the ill will and suspicion that is the lot of their families.

Understandably, it is hard for those whose nearest and dearest have suffered torture and death at the hands of the Japs to be tolerant. But those who deliberately inject race into politics do a vicious wrong to the whole country. We're going to have a hard enough time steering a straight course, without that.

SUGAR FACTORY RUNNING AGAIN

Menominee Plant Took 50,000 Tons Of Beets Last Year

Menominee—The Superior Sugar Refining company plant Monday started its annual fall run of beet sugar manufacture and Manager August Ludwig predicted that "within a few days we will have sugar enough to fill every sugar bowl on all the tables in the territory we serve."

With an abundant supply of beets, Ludwig predicted that the sugar company would slice a few thousand tons more than last year's 50,000 tons before the run ended in December.

A crew of 300 is employed at the plant and more are needed.

The sugar plant supplies the territory of upper Michigan and northern Wisconsin and products are sold from Sault Ste. Marie to Milwaukee, Ludwig said. Wholesalers report a scarcity of sugar in this area.

Escanaba Marine Back Home After Marshall Battle

Retiree about his battle experiences but happy to be home on his first furlough since his enlistment in the U. S. Marines in March, 1942, Cpl. Clinton Hanson has arrived from the South Pacific to spend 30 days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hanson, 916 First avenue south. At the expiration of his furlough, Cpl. Hanson will enter the Great Lakes naval hospital for treatment of filariasis, a tropical disease.

Cpl. Hanson contacted filariasis, more commonly known as elephantiasis, while in training in the Samoa Islands. Virtually all of the natives in that area are afflicted with the disease, Hanson said. The disease became acute while Hanson was fighting in the Marshall Islands and he later was hospitalized at Guadalcanal before being returned to the United States.

23 Months Overseas
Filariasis is spread by mosquitoes and results in swelling of joints, glands, arms and legs, causing considerable pain and aching of muscles. Strictly a tropical disease, the effects of filariasis generally disappear when its victims move to colder climates.

Cpl. Hanson served 23 months overseas, fighting in three islands of the Marshall campaign. Smiling, Hanson admitted that he had "killed some Japs" with his automatic rifle in the Marshalls campaign and brought home as souvenirs of that campaign a Japanese flag, a Jap ring and a Longines watch, engraved with Japanese letters, all removed from the body of a dead Japanese imperial marine. The flag, about two feet square, bedecked with Japanese scribbling, was found in the Jap's helmet. Hanson added that virtually all of the Japanese warrior carried similar flags folded into their helmet.

Hanson reported that the Marines spent many days practicing landings on beaches of islands in the Pacific in preparation for the Marshalls campaign.

"When the real thing came, we were ready but we were scared, too. Our bombs and artillery had done a good job on the beaches of the Marshall Islands and our casualties in securing the beaches were not heavy. After we reached the shore, our fright disappeared. We gave the Jap everything we had then."

"The Japanese in the Marshall Islands were determined soldiers, well equipped, who fought without any thought of surrender," Hanson said. "Many of them seemed to be dope-crazed and did a lot of foolish things. At Eniwetok the Japs compressed into a small corner of the island ran into the sea, apparently to escape capture. Most of them were killed by American riflemen."

Clinton's brother, Pfc. Robert Hanson, also in the Marines, served with the American forces at Kwajalein in the Marshalls and the two boys later met at Guadalcanal, where they spent several days together early in May. Robert is still in the South Pacific and fought at Guam after the Marshalls campaign. A third brother in service is S 2/c Clifford Hanson, of the U. S. Navy, stationed in Florida.

We Make Progress

IF THERE were not a number of sound headed Republicans on the Delta county board of supervisors, the people, of this county could well draw the conclusion that this county's governing body has adopted the New Deal policy of attempting to spend its way into prosperity. For the past several years one unbalanced annual budget after another has been the rule, piling up annual deficits, much in the manner that the national New Deal administration at Washington has laughed off an ever mounting national debt.

Maybe the local situation isn't quite as bad as the national example for some honest men in the membership of the Delta county board of supervisors have been burning the midnight oil, trying to devise some manner by which this county can abandon its New Dealish plan of financing. This group did make some progress this year, for the budget finally adopted exceeds the county's estimated annual income by only some $7,000, while a year ago budget appropriations exceeded income by a little better than $15,000. In Delta county we are at least attempting to solve a grave financial problem, while the national administration continues its false economic policy, in supporting needless and untimely politically inspired bureaus and commissions, with an abandon that would be impressive if it were not so viciously dangerous.

Of course the fault in Delta county lies in the continuation of an ancient and inefficient form of county government, protected by laws that were originally adopted more than a hundred years ago. Until those laws can be removed from the statute books, at least some Delta county supervisors must battle continually to prevent this county from following false New Deal economic theories, as a permanent policy.

New Castle Plans

YESTERDAY morning's mail brought an attractive folder from the Chamber of Commerce of New Castle, which described how that Indiana city of 20,000 is making its plans for the postwar era.

The cover of the booklet bore the statement that "New Castle Plans" is the story of a middle western town which seeks not wider streets or more parks or greater wealth for their own sake, but a place to live which shall be safe and peaceful and satisfying.

Back in 1907, the Maxwell automobile factory located in New Castle, and other industries followed. The small agricultural town grew into a community of 20,000. But the streets and other institutions that were built for pioneer conditions were eventually outmoded.

In 1912, the New Castle Chamber of Commerce held a civic clinic, to which every citizen was invited to attend and tell what they wanted for their town. They revealed that they desired better housing conditions, more adequate parks, a civic auditorium, a zoning ordinance, a community center, and other modern facilities. Then, the mayor appointed a city plan commission, which after studying the problem decided to engage the world-renowned firm of Saarinen and Swanson of Birmingham, Mich., as consultants.

Having taken stock of its assets, New Castle is preparing to face its problems squarely and to direct future growth along lines that will give its people both the opportunity of an industrial city and the charm and ease of life in a small town.

New Castle is determined to eliminate noise, dirt and dangerous traffic from its residential districts, and provide adequate parking facilities in its business district. It proposed to banish those blighted residential sections where disease and crime are bred, and give their tenants a place to live that will permit good health and induce good citizenship. New Castle is going to do more than just planning.

Safety Work Pays

AN EMPLOYEES' safety committee in nine months paid $28,000 in dividends to Berkeley, Cal., the International City Managers Association reports. This sum is a refund on the city's workmen's compensation insurance premium of $53,000 made by the California state compensation insurance fund which operates on a cost basis, returning any profits to policyholders in direct proportion to their ability to reduce accidents.

Berkeley's safety committee was organized a year ago after an analysis of the causes of accidents among city employees over a period of four years showed a heavy man-hour loss and increasing insurance costs.

First step taken was the formation of a general safety committee composed of the heads of the nine operating departments under the chairmanship of the personnel director. The committee meets once a month to discuss each accident which occurred during the previous period and recommend ways to prevent similar accidents. Various departments investigate each accident within the department and report to the general safety committee the cause and corrective action taken. A representative of the state fund attends each meeting in the capacity of advisor.

A series of meetings was held to acquaint all city employees with conditions and to enlist their support in the safety campaign. Department heads, with the aid of the safety engineering department representative of the insurance fund, presented the general picture and the specific problems of each department to the employees.

During the first quarter of the 1943-44 fiscal year before the safety committee began its work, 66 employees were injured by accidents which in 14 cases caused employees to lose time from work. During the next nine months only 137 employees were injured, and there were only 25 lost-time accidents. Cost per case was reduced from $281 in 1941 to $65 in 1943.

Town Hall Series

DESPITE the fact that the increase of the federal tax from 10 to 20 per cent will impose additional financial risk, Town Hall will again present an ambitious music and lecture series during the 1944-45 season.

The series will open with a concert by the famous Don Cossocks chorus, directed by Serge Jeroff, and will be followed by other musical and lecture attractions of national prominence. All together, these numbers will furnish a lengthy season of entertainment and education, which would be denied this community if the Town Hall committee did not devote its time and effort to this non-profit undertaking.

This season, Town Hall is offering the most costly program in its history. Its success is predicated upon a virtual sell-out of the seats in the Wm. W. Oliver auditorium, where all the concerts and lectures will be presented. It is hoped that the public will give the needed support.

BUSINESS AS USUAL—PLUS

(Grand Rapids Press)

Secretary William Palmer's annual report to the West Michigan Tourist and Resort association convention Thursday must have brought a reminiscent smile to the faces of members who remembered the first wartime session of that organization in 1942.

At the time of the earlier convention we were in our first year of war. The full impact of gasoline rationing on the American motorist's penchant for travel was just beginning to become apparent. Not a few resort operators made the dire prediction in the convention that the tourist business was as good as finished for the duration.

The 1943 season did much to discredit those prophets of gloom and the tourist business of 1944 proved they couldn't have been more mistaken. The resort men had reason to smile when Secretary Palmer told them what they must already have known—that the demand for tourist accommodations this summer all the way from the Indiana line to the straits of Mackinac was unprecedented.

As Palmer pointed out, western Michigan is in a strategic geographical location to attract short-haul travel business. Chicago folk who spent prewar vacations motoring to the west coast or New England haven't enough gasoline now to venture that far afield, but by saving up their coupons they do manage to get to Michigan lakes and streams. The volume of resort business from Chicago this summer was the largest in history.

Gasoline rationing prevents the resorters from roving about once they have arrived and that means a heavy demand for cottages on a monthly or seasonal basis and hotel and tourist cabin reservations for longer periods than formerly. To obtain accommodations on short notice at many of Michigan's popular resorts this summer was virtually impossible.

Like many of life's apprehensions, the wartime slump in western Michigan's resort business was one that didn't happen. Resort operators will want to retain in peacetime the business that developed because of war conditions. Establishment of the Inviting new Michigan Information office in Chicago as a project of the state's new tourist council and an expanded advertising program in newspapers and magazines will help them retain old friends and make new ones.

NO ASYLUM!

(Christian Science Monitor)

Secretary Hull's reminder of the attitude of the United States toward war criminals is at once an assurance and a warning. It will reassure victims of aggression that top Nazis are considered war criminals by the United States and will be treated as criminals rather than as harmless lobbyists with a penchant for wood chopping on a comfortable estate like Doorn. It will help to stiffen public opinion in all neutral countries against the notion of offering asylum to Nazis fleeing justice.

No neutral country, Mr. Hull makes clear, can do this without incurring the costly ill will of the United States for a long time to come.

An immediate response to his warning came from Argentina, which had not earlier made clear its position toward Nazi fugitives. This response however has been rather snowed under by the President's blast against that country for actions evidently calculated to disrupt Western Hemisphere unity. Until Argentina's attitude toward the struggle against Nazism becomes much clearer it seems unlikely that much importance will be attached to her statement on war criminals.

However, it would seem the height of recklessness for any country to provide asylum for Nazis, because Mr. Hull's warning, though it speaks officially only

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY

A twenty-four days' trip to the West Coast has given me information which makes Mr. Roosevelt's speech to the Party workers on Thursday night most significant. For Mr. Roosevelt's fears, as expressed in that speech, point precisely to the weak spots in his candidacy. Those weak spots can be seen by anyone with eyes to see and energy to travel. The three most important are the prospect of a light vote, the belief that the Commander-in-Chief will keep the boys in uniform beyond the needs of military victory and the Communist backing of the Fourth Term.

Moley

tary victory and the Communist backing of the Fourth Term.

—REGISTRATIONS LAG—

Mr. Roosevelt read us a nice homily on the duty to vote. He said "I should be sorry to be elected on a small turn-out of voters." What he really meant was that if he should be elected on a small turn-out of voters, he would not be sorry, but flabbergasted. And so would every sound political observer in the United States. If Messrs. Hillman and Hanesman fail in their bush-beating for registrations, their man will lose. And in every state I have visited it is clear that registrations are not up to expectations.

The next passage in the President's speech was an impassioned denial of the charge that he intends to keep men in the army for social and educational purposes after the war. Of course, General Hershey let a large and rabid cat out of the bag. But there has been plenty of other evidence to frighten men in the service and relatives at home. Unless the Republicans are wholly derelict, there will be a lot more revealed on this subject before election. The President knows that and is obviously nervous.

—NOT FOR COMMUNISTS—

Finally, Mr. Roosevelt assured the people that he has no intentions of selling our country to the Communists. Apparently, he is not for the Communists, although the Communists are for him and he makes no repudiation of Mr. Browder's energetic campaigning. His fear on this subject is well grounded. Millions, including the members and clergymen of churches opposed to Communism and the Poles in pivotal cities like Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago, are concerned about Communism. Mr. Roosevelt knows this and is afraid.

Here are the three paramount concerns of the Democratic high command: openly and badly states. One is a condition; two are issues. The President has drawn a blueprint for his opposition. The Secret Service has apparently restricted his movements in the campaign, but his own sources of information are still seemingly excellent.

Clearly, Mr. Roosevelt has much more to fear than fear itself.

WORDS TO WATCH

Two mistakes often occur in pronouncing the word IDENTITY, as "id-DEN-tee." The "t" should be long (eye), and the first "t" should not be omitted. Be sure to say eye-DEN-tee. (Note: Also watch the first "t" in quantity. Say: KWAN-tee.)

EMIGRE means "one who is forced to leave his own country; an involuntary emigrant." Caution: The third syllable does not rhyme with "free, see." Rhyme it with "day, day." Say: EM-i-gray.

Emigree is a French loan-word. In that language the masculine is emigre (both "e"s) are marked with the "accent grave"), and the feminine is emigree. Both are pronounced: ay-mee-GRAY.

E. W. H. of Los Angeles, sends a clipping containing this sentence: "... drop into the shop and incidentally meet his charming manager." This is pretty good evidence that the word INCIDENTALLY is so widely mispronounced that the corruption of the spelling has begun. Careful speakers will watch such -ally words as incidentally, hysterically, etc. and give -ally two distinct syllables, as: IN-si-DEN-tuh-lee, ee-LEK-tri-kuh-lee, LOJ-i-kuh-lee, etc.

IMPLACABLE. Several readers have asked if the frequently heard pronunciation, "im-PLAK-uh-b'l" has any sanction. I have checked seven American dictionaries and the English Oxford. Here's the score: first choice of all eight: im-PLAY-kuh-b'l. Second choice of four: im-PLAK-uh-b'l. The latter has a harsh sound to my ears.

for the United States, reflects a sentiment which is very nearly world wide, and which would doubtless estrange any government harboring fugitives recognized as international criminals.

SWIMMING POOLS FOR GREEN BAY (Green Bay Press-Gazette)

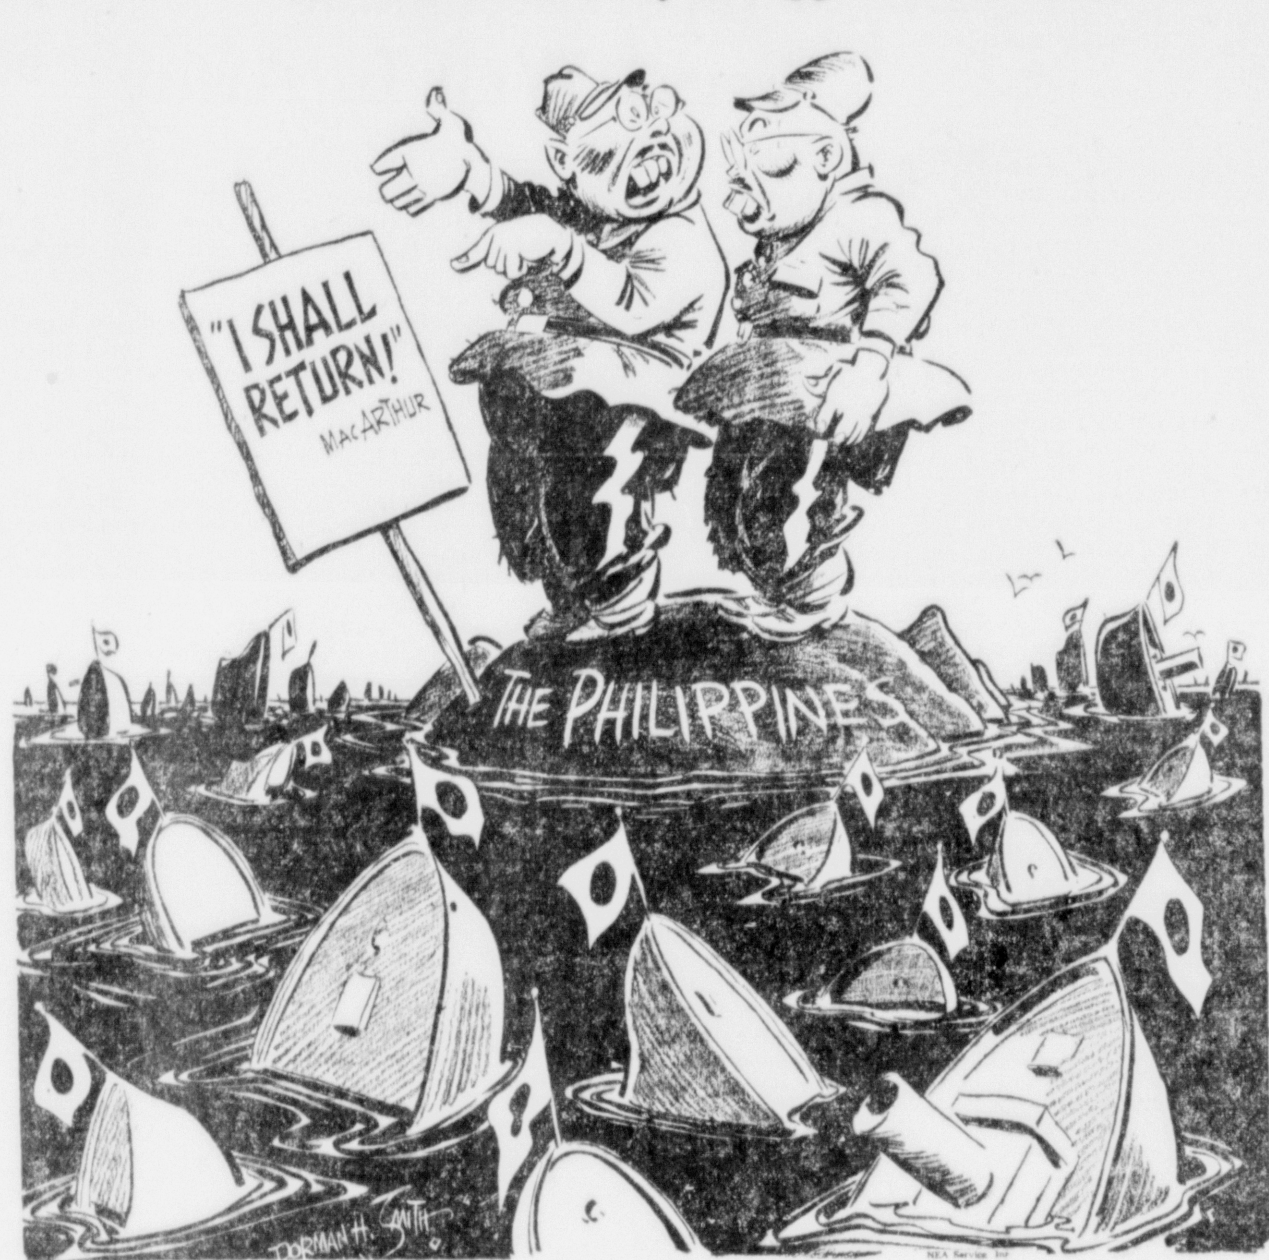

We were glad to see the initiation of proceedings to secure for Green Bay some fine swimming pools and which we classify as necessary for the next generation as bridges across the Fox were for our grandparents.

The size of these pools, their location for the convenience of the public, whether they shall be operated part or all the year, are fitting questions for consideration and debate. But their reasonable necessity in the way of civic improvement down the years can hardly be doubted.

Good Morning!

—By The Bugler—

ANNIVERSARY—Two years ago "Good Morning" column was born. There have been times since when it was debatable whether it would not have been just as well to let the infant die instead of shooting adrenalin into its system, or placing the alluring brain child in an oxygen tent to keep it alive. Many readers, as well as the author, will agree to this.

Still in its infancy, the column makes no pretense of being other than what it is—a local outlet for items of local interest. When these run short the Bugler has to wheel it around for a day or so in a baby carriage of his own devising—such as this anniversary column today.

Writing a daily column is like the advice to the guy who was plowing—once you start out you haven't time to do much except take a quick glance back over your shoulder. Especially is this so when the column is sandwiched in among other duties of the day. The time to write it is limited, the space must be filled, and dallying too long over it means cutting important corners elsewhere.

THE WAITING—Just the task of writing a column a day is sometimes an ordeal. Other days it flows along like the Escanaba river in spring flood.

Each column averages about 850 words in length. This makes the weekly workload about 5,100—a long short story.

There are 52 weeks in a year, and this figure multiplied by six is a total of 312 days each year the column appears. At 850 words per day the total is 265,200 words per year.

Therefore, in the two years "Good Morning" has been running a grand total of 530,400 words have appeared in it.

The novel of average length runs about 120,000 words. So in the two years of "Good Morning" history the wordage approximates four novels—or enough writing every six months to fill a book.

NOT QUALITY—This is not to say that column stuff has approached the dignity of book material. Far from it.

According to most amateur writers there are two types of manuscripts: 1—Those that sell. 2—"Quality" stuff.

Some authors with an eye to posterity and a reward in heaven write "quality" stuff all the time. Others, with an eye to keeping the bread box filled, skip the "quality" and try to turn out readable material that somebody will buy and print.

Then too, most writers at some time or other find their level and make up in quantity what their writing lacks in "quality." They do, nevertheless, keep the wolf away from the door and provide light reading for a large number of people.

THE "GOOD" COLUMN—Most column writers have troubles aplenty in trying to decide what to use and what not to use. They want the column to be readable and (if possible) amusing without offending anyone. They would like to be helpful to their community—and this often leads them into controversy. For large numbers of people violently disagree on what is best for their community, and take exception to the opinions of the columnist.

Tips aplenty on how to write a column were forthcoming recently in a survey conducted by the Oregon newspaper Publishers association. The writers were questioned about their sources of news, policies and the advice which they might offer editors instituting local columns in their own newspapers.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1934

A party in celebration of the anniversary of its founding was held in Odd Fellow's hall by Phoebe Rebekah lodge Friday evening. Manistique—Cost of road maintenance in Schoolcraft county during the past year, including both the trunk line and the county roads, amounted to $114,057.90, according to the annual report of the county road commission.

J. C. Penney, founder of the well known chain store organization, was a visitor in Escanaba yesterday.

Directors of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce will launch a two day campaign this morning to secure new members. It was announced today by President A. J. Young.

With James T. Jones, chairman of the Delta county chapter a roll call regional conference of the American Red Cross will be held here today. Two national leaders, Walter Wessellus, St. Louis and James L. Fieser, Washington, D. C., are on the program.

20 Years Ago—1924

The Washington Senators won their first world's championship, defeating the New York Giants 4 to 3 in a thrilling 12 inning final game of the world series.

One of the finest stretches of penetration macadam highway in the peninsula is that now being rushed to completion by the Delta Contracting company between Maple Ridge and the Marquette county line.

Gladstone—E. J. Noreus, J. Paul Bushong and James T. Jones have returned from Manistique where they attended an important meeting of the Delta-Schoolcraft Boy Scout council.

The newly appointed superior, Ven. Sister Alphonse, arrived Thursday morning from Peoria to assume charge of St. Francis hospital.

25 Years Ago—1919

A meeting of upper peninsula potato growers has been called for Wednesday evening in Escanaba. Door D. Buell, head of the Michigan Potato Growers association, W. C. Cribbs, organization specialist, and Frank S. Jordan, supervisor of the local association, will take part in the meeting.

With the exception of butter and eggs a half a dozen commodities listed by the Fair Food Price List were lowered by the committee at last night's meeting held in the office of Prosecuting Attorney Torval E. Strom.

READER INTEREST—Replies to the questions showed that they agreed on the following: The column should be run in a fixed spot or not at all. It should be about local people and local happenings. While local names are the backbone of the column, there should be variety to put a little meat on the bones.

Malice should be avoided. Avoid anything likely to create ill-feelings as to religion. Make the column "punchy", informal and clean. Be humble. Don't toss your vocabulary around too much, and be sincere.

HOW THEY RATE—The column writers from the state of Oregon rate the importance of material in the following order: 1—Humorous happenings to local persons. 2—Oddities seen around town. 3—A witty thought tersely expressed. 4—Semi-editorial comment about local drives and war activities. 5—Queer antics of household pets. 6—Sayings and doings of local children. 7—Short poems. 8—Quotations from current speeches given locally. 9—Nature. "Everybody likes a bird and feels sorry for a sparrow." 10—Taxes. Most popular hate—next to Hitler.

NEW YORK—Photo Dept.: When President Roosevelt addressed the Teamsters Union at the Hotel Statler, Henry J. Kaiser was one of the honored guests on the dais, seated near the President. All the newswatchers of the dinner show Mr. Kaiser smiling and applauding the President. . . . Mr. Kaiser is chairman of the non-partisan committee urging all people to register for voting. Sometime this month, therefore, to preserve his non-partisan status, Mr. Kaiser will arrange to have himself photographed with Gov. Dewey.

SOCIAL NOTE: Mary Martin sat in the Barbary Room with Goddard Lieberson, of Columbia Records, and heard him discuss current events. "You, Mr. Lieberson, are an intellectual," said Miss Martin. "What are you?" he asked. . . . "I am a Bahbit," said the star. . . . "And what's a Bahbit?" asked Lieberson. . . . "Bahbits," was Martin's definition, "are people who come and go."

TRAVEL DEPT.: Palmer Hoyt Jr., the 21-year-old son of the publisher of the Portland Oregonian, enlisted in the Air Corps but received a medical discharge. He immediately joined the Office of War Information, lamenting over the Army's refusal to give him a chance of getting into action. . . . Young Hoyt was sent to Burma by the OWI. En route, he fell down the hold of the ship, and broke his shoulder. In Ceylon, while he was touring the city in a rickshaw, four natives pounced on him, and cut his throat. He survived, reached Burma, went out on an expedition, and crashed through the windshield of a jeep.

BUSINESS DEPT.: The U. S. S. Augusta is known as the "Glamor Ship," because it was on her decks that Roosevelt and Churchill held their first historic conference and because since then she's hauled much brass and gold. On D-Day, the Augusta again carried much brass and gold. And it was decided to use only the deck guns, because a full salvo would knock out the communications system, which was keeping the high officials informed on the progress of the invasion. . . . Off the shore of France the Augusta hoisted a destroyer which had all guns blazing. The Augusta let go with her deck batteries only. . . . The destroyer then signalled the Augusta: "Aho, show boat."

PRESS DEPT.: Arthur Hays Sulzberger, president and publisher of the N. Y. Times, went to two dinners recently. At the first, Sulzberger was told: "We see by your editorials that your paper is swinging to Roosevelt." . . . At the second dinner Sulzberger was told: "We see by your editorials that your paper is swinging to Dewey." . . . This doubt soon will be settled. The N. Y. Times, as was indicated here last July, will come out for Roosevelt.

THEATRE DEPT.: Joseph Bulloff, who plays the Armenian peddler in "Oklahoma," is playing his 178th role. He has performed all over the world, and three Kings have come to watch him play. . . . When Bulloff arrived here, he met an unknown producer named Michael Todd. They discussed their dreams of elevating the American drama to new heights of distinction. Todd signed Bulloff to a show, which ran one night. Todd tried again, with Bulloff, and again the show flopped. . . . Todd then tried four musicals, with Bill Robinson, Gypsy Rose Lee, Ethel Merman, Bobby Clark and June Haver, and made a fortune. He met Joe Bulloff again and Todd, now a hot Broadway showman, advised: "Joe, if you want to click, put a snake into your act."

The Army Air Forces are now training 110,000 pilots annually. In July, 1939, the Army's arm numbered 21,556 officers and men as compared with its 2,355,000 at the beginning of this year.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Baton Rouge, La.—Through uncensored diplomatic sources, the inside story of the fall of the Tojo cabinet has just been experienced. Also it indicates more and more friction between the Jap war lords and the Jap merchant princes, both now jockeying for power.

To some extent the row inside Japan has had its parallel in the feud between the U. S. Army and Navy and certain $1-a-year men in the War Production Board.

News is so censored out of Japan that the true picture is hard to get. But, according to this authentic report, Admiral Tojo's overthrow as premier resulted not only from military defeat but from his inability to control the giant Jap cartels—Mitsui, Mitsubishi, Sumitomo and Yasuda. These firms were founded by the merchant princes of Japan after Admiral Perry opened Japan's doors to the outside world, in 1854. They own shipyards, steel plants, munitions factories—almost every major industry in Nippon.

About three months before Pearl Harbor, Japan formed the "New Economic Structure." Most U. S. and British commentators got the idea that this was a plan whereby the Jap military ruled over business. Actually it was just the reverse. —SUPER-CARTELS INSTITUTED—

The New Economic Structure set up a series of super-cartels or control associations. Theoretically, these control associations were public organizations embracing an entire industry and responsible to the Ministry of Commerce and Industry. But in reality the executives of big industry were given the key jobs in the control associations, somewhat as $1-a-year men have supervised their own industries in the War Production Board.

For instance, the man appointed to head the iron and steel control association was Hachisaburo Hiraio, a Mitsubishi man, formerly president of the Iron and Steel Manufacturers' Federation. This is comparable to the Iron and Steel Institute in the United States.

The New Economic Structure, created Sept. 1, 1941, worked well during Japan's easy victories at Pearl Harbor and immediately thereafter. But when Japan began to lose in the Solomons, in the fall of 1942, and as Jap merchant shipping was decimated by U. S. submarines, the Japanese economic structures became sorely taxed.

Tojo needed more ships, more planes and more guns and the New Economic Structure was not producing fast enough. So finally, at the Diet session of January, 1943, he demanded emergency powers to deal with the economic crisis. The big Jap cartels, however, bucked.

—TOJO'S CONTROL HAMPERED—

For a time opposition was so tough that Admiral Tojo had to postpone the Diet session and feigned "illness" as an excuse. In fact, he was so slow getting control of Jap industry that his middle-of-the-road methods aroused the resentment of the extreme "National Socialists" and the left wing of his military-Fascists. They fumed and fretted. Some of them, headed by Seigo Nakano, who admired Hitler's storm troop methods, urged the nationalization of all industry.

Nakano had been a strong supporter of Admiral Tojo, but Japanese big business was so resentful that they persuaded Tojo to withdraw the support of his Imperial Rule Assistance Political Association when Nakano ran for the Diet. Despite that, Nakano was elected by a large majority.

But in October, 1943, when Nakano attempted to organize a putsch against the "conservative" tendencies of the Tojo government, the police nipped it in the bud and he committed suicide.

Later, toward the end of 1943, Admiral Tojo made a new attempt to strengthen his grip over the economy of the country. Calling a special session of the Diet, he formed a new Munitions Ministry, headed by himself, and placed all war production under it. This, it was hoped, would speed the output of planes, ships and guns.

Theoretically, this subordinated all business to Army control, as far as the planning and direction of war production went. However, Tojo's power didn't last long. Japanese big business moved in during November, 1943, and forced the addition of several businessmen to the Cabinet. They had the effect of negating the Army's industrial power.

—MILITARY AND PRINCES CLASH—

Probably if Tojo had been winning victories, during this period, he could have won out in his Cabinet struggle. But Japan was suffering bitter military reverses. The military were blaming them on Japan's merchant princes, and princes were blaming them on the military.

Finally Tojo fell. Premier Koiso, who replaced him, has made no attempt to control the cartels. His most important appointment, to the all-important post of Munitions Minister, was that of Gijiro Fujiwara, a Mitsui man.

As soon as Fujiwara became Minister of Munitions, he made it clear that this was a major victory for business over the Army and Navy by taking over all Army-Navy arsenals.

Thus Japan's merchant princes have strengthened their hold over the Cabinet. Before the war, they never were too sympathetic with the Japanese military. And as the war goes increasingly against Japan, it is possible that the merchant princes may try to dump the military entirely and sue for a soft peace. They may try to sell the idea that the Allies can come to a "safe" agreement with the "moderate" elements in Japan. Though how long it will last is problematical.

SET WAR FUND CAMPAIGN DATE

Drive To Raise $40,000 In Delta County To Open Friday

The Delta county United War Fund campaign to raise $40,000 for the USO and other war agencies, the Boy Scouts and other local organizations, will open Friday morning following meetings of city and township War Fund workers scheduled for Thursday afternoon and evening.

Merton Jensen, Escanaba War Fund committee chairman, said yesterday that the complete Escanaba committee will be organized and ready to function at the opening of the campaign Friday.

A special contributions committee named last week for Escanaba to contact the larger contributors is already at work, and these special contributions so far reported are above those of last year, according to Carl Wickman, county War Fund treasurer.

Women of Escanaba who will conduct the solicitation drive in the residential area of the city will meet in council chambers at city hall at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The purpose of the War Fund is to help the fighting men and women of the United States and to the people of war-ravaged countries, will be described by Trooper Ralph Sheahan, Marquette, of the Michigan State Police.

Chairman Jensen will instruct the solicitors and distribute work envelopes.

Thursday evening township workers and key workers of Escanaba and Gladstone will gather at a 6:30 o'clock dinner meeting at the Sherman hotel. Wallace Cameron of Gladstone will be toastmaster, and Trooper Sheahan will speak. A feature of the program will be the presentation of a moving picture "Memo for Joe", depicting the role of the War Fund among servicemen.

The dinner meeting is scheduled to end early, so that those persons who plan to attend the "Naughty Marietta" operetta will not be delayed.

News From Men In The Service

William St. Cyr, Seaman Second Class, who recently completed his boot training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, has been assigned to the Amphibious Base at Little Creek, Va., for further training.

Seaman St. Cyr entered the service in July. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dona St. Cyr, of 1514 Seventh Avenue South.

Flight Officer Thomas J. Heron of Chicago, Ill. has just returned to Chicago after spending several days in Escanaba. Danforth and Bark River visiting with friends and relatives. F. O. Thomas J. Heron has just returned from England where he completed 35 missions over enemy territory. F. O. Thomas J. Heron was formerly a resident of Bark River, Route One.

Captain John David Baum, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Baum, 108 South 11th street, has been promoted to that rating from lieutenant while on duty in France, according to a letter received yesterday by his parents. Capt. Baum has been in the United States Army for two and one-half years, and has been overseas for about 16 months, first in England and now in France where he was with the headquarters of an engineers section.

South Gladys Lauscher, of 203 South 23d street, has received a letter from her son, 4th Lt. Milton H. Lauscher, the first to reach her in six weeks, in which he says in part:

"I received your letter of the 1st of Sept. and am writing now, that I have the time and ambition. We are finally settled a little and able to write. My new location isn't too bad, though. It rains about every two hours, it's muddy as a pig pen and mosquitoes are bad. We even have little pets running around on our floorless tents. Little lizards and wood crabs big enough to saddle up and ride. But please do not worry, I will get along as us Marines all do. Wish I could tell you where I am situated but that is against rules. If you see my gang give them my regards and tell them to write."

Private Francis Peters, Nahma, Mich., is a bomb loader with one of the first Ninth Air Force medium bomber groups to operate from French soil after the invasion.

Private Peters' group, commanded by Colonel Thomas B. Hall, has been officially commended several times for pre-invasion attacks, the precision bombing of enemy strongpoints on D-day and for its current operations in support of ground forces on the continent. Its B-26 Marauders have blasted the enemy in France, Belgium and Holland and are now within range of Germany itself.

Private Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peters, Nahma, was employed by the Nahma Lumber Co. before entering the service January, 1942. He has now been overseas for more than six months.

Escanaba Greeks Watch War News Of Homeland

Progress in the Allied invasion of Greece is being followed with keen interest by at least three families in Escanaba. Residents here for many years, these Greek families nevertheless still are bound to their homeland by family ties.

Tony Chapekis, George Prokos and Sam Rouman and their families are all Americans now, but they have brothers and sisters in the old country. George Prokos' mother is there and he wonders whether she still is alive and well. George has tried for two years through the Red Cross to receive word from a brother in Greece. Now that the Allies are going back into the country he eventually will be able to contact members of his family, he thinks.

Tony Chapekis, veteran Ludington street shoe repairer, has been in America since 1902, except for a period around 1912 when he went back to become a soldier in the Greek Army. Now Tony has a son fighting under the American flag.

While the men's recollections of their homeland have become somewhat dimmed by the passing of years, their interest has not, and they are among the members of the large community of American Greeks who have been contributing regularly and generously to Greek war relief.

George stated that since the Axis came into control of Greece in 1941, the war relief contributions have reached a total of 12 millions, and the amount continues to grow. A recent bulletin from the Greek War Relief association with headquarters in New York states:

"The fact that any Greeks have lived to resist the Axis and aid the invading armies is due solely to the Greek relief program.

Write 'em A Letter Drive Is Sponsored By Escanaba Elks

Norman T. Stephenson, Exalted Ruler of Escanaba lodge 354, B. P. O. E. Elks, today announced, in emphasizing the importance of mail to the armed forces, that our government rates mail first after ammunition and food. He said that the third day after American troops had landed on Saitan Island, mail from home was being distributed to the men in the front lines.

The Escanaba lodge's plans for encouraging wider community interest in writing to the boys overseas include distribution to merchants in this community of a 1 1/2 x 2 foot attractively designed poster showing a forlorn soldier remarking "Another Day and No Mail" and pictures of Jack Benny, Joe E. Brown, Gary Cooper, Andy Devine, John Garfield and Fredric March—all of whom have visited overseas camps—with excerpts from their letters endorsing the Elks "Write 'Em A Letter" program.

The Roving Reporter

So I don't know. Is war dramatic, or isn't it? Certainly there are great tragedies, unbelievable heroics, even a constant undertone of comedy. It is the job of us writers to transfer all that drama back to you folks at home. Most of the other correspondents have the ability to do it. But when I sit down to write, here is what I see instead:

Men at the front suffering and wishing they were somewhere else, men in routine jobs just behind the lines bellyaching because they can't get to the front, all of them desperately hungry for somebody to talk to besides themselves, no women to be heroes in front of, damn little wine to drink, precious little sleep, cold and fairly dirty, just toiling from day to day in a world full of insecurity, discomfort, home-sickness and a dulled sense of danger.

The drama and romance are here, of course, but they're like the famous falling tree in the forest—they're no good unless there's somebody around to hear. I know of only twice that the war will be romantic to the men over here. Once when they see the Statue of Liberty, again on their first day back in the home town with the folks.

And speaking of drama, I've just passed up my only opportunity of being dramatic in this war. It was a tough decision either way.

As you've seen, correspondents at last are allowed to go along on bombing missions. I am with a bomber group that I'd known both in England and elsewhere in Africa, and many of them are personal friends by now. They asked if I cared to go along on a mission over the hot spot of Bizerte.

I knew the day of that invitation would come, and I dreaded it. Not to go, brands you as a coward. To go might make you a slight hero, or a dead duck. Actually I never knew what I'd say until the moment came. When it did come, I said this:

"No, I don't see any sense in me going. Other correspondents have already gone, so I couldn't be the first anyhow. I'd be in the way, and if I got killed my death would have contributed nothing. I'm running chances just being here without sticking my neck out and asking for it. No, I think I won't go. I'm too old to be a hero."

The reaction of the fliers astounded me. I expected them to be politely contemptuous of anyone who declined to do just one what they do every day. But their attitude was exactly the opposite, and you could tell they were sincere and not just being nice.

"Anybody who goes, when he doesn't have to, is a plain damn fool," one of them said.

"If I were in your shoes I'd never go on another mission," another pilot said.

A bombardier with his arm in a sling from flak said: "You're right. A correspondent went with us. It wasn't any good. He shouldn't have done it."

A lieutenant-colonel, who had just got back from a mission, said: "There are only two reasons on earth why anybody should go. Either because he has to, or to show other people he isn't afraid. Some of us have to show we're not afraid. You don't have to. You decided right."

I put this all down with such blunt immediacy because some of you may have wondered when I'm going along to describe a bombing mission for you, and if not, why not, I'm not going, and the reason is that I've rationalized myself into believing that for one in my position, my sole purpose in going would be to perpetuate my vanity. And I've decided to hell with vanity.

Explain Right Way To Measure Boxes For Yule Mailing

The correct method of measuring the size of the box to be used for overseas Christmas mailing, was explained yesterday by Regina Cleary, postmaster.

The Christmas package to mail in the service cannot be more than 36 inches in length and girth combined. The correct way of determining if your package is within the limits is to measure the top of the box from end to end the long way. This is the length. Then measure all the way around the short sides of the box, which is the girth. If you get more than 36 inches when you add the two measurements, the package is too large.

Monday Deadline On City Tax Payments

Escanaba city taxpayers yesterday were reminded by City Treasurer A. J. Monley that October 15 is the deadline for the payment of city taxes without penalty.

However, because October 15 falls on Sunday, the final date for payment without penalty has been extended to Monday, October 16, the city treasurer said.

After that date a 4 per cent penalty charge will be collected on delinquent tax payments.

Nearly 300 species of scallops are known to exist.

TIMBER SALES ARE SCHEDULED

Conservation Dep't Will Offer 2,280 Acres To Public

Largest 1944 sales of merchantable timber, located principally in deer yards of state game areas, are to be held this month by the conservation department. Offerings total 2,280 acres.

Such selective cutting in deer yards is allowing young trees and shrubs which provide food for deer to get a start. Mature timber that is offered for sale usually chooses undergrowth that could provide food.

October sales are heaviest because they largely embrace entire winter operations in game areas.

Schedule of sales includes: Baldwin, October 26, 180 acres; Baldwin district game area; Baraga, October 19, 80 acres; Baraga district game area; Crystal Falls, October 15, 520 acres; Crystal Falls district game area; Iron Mountain, October 14, 30 acres; Escanaba River district game area; Manistique, October 20, 320 acres; Newberry district game area; Marquette, October 13, 450 acres; Escanaba River district game area; Sault Ste. Marie, October 14, 200 acres; Muniskong district game area; St. Ignace, October 19, 120 acres; Muniskong district game area.

Golf Club Stages Novelty Saturday

Something new in entertainment will be enjoyed by Escanaba Golf club members Saturday afternoon and evening at a joint "stag" party for men and women. Mixed foursomes will be played in the afternoon, and there will be truck service on the links, with dinner following the golf matches. Entertainment will be presented both in the afternoon and evening.

Don't Wait Until It's Too Late! PREPARE YOUR HOME FOR WINTER NOW

AMERICA must fight fuel waste. War needs are taking more fuel than ever before. Coal, oil and gas will be short.

But you need not suffer from cold this winter. Follow the simple suggestions given here—decide what should be done in your home to make it more comfortable with less fuel. Call any of the dealers listed in this ad. They are ready to serve you. Now is the time to act. Keep your home comfortable, your family well. It's the patriotic and sensible thing to do.

How to Keep Comfortable with Less Fuel

1. Clean, tune-up heating plant. Install controls and other fuel-saving devices. Barometric dampers and domestic regulator sets are now available—look into them. Heating controls can make your fuel last more than 10% longer.
2. Heat-seal your house by insulating walls and ceilings, weatherstripping, caulking cracks, installing storm windows and doors. Even simple installations can save 10% or more in fuel bills. Do your "winterizing" now. Get ahead of the Fall rush when materials and labor may be scarce. Call your dealer today.

"Cold is the source of more suffering to all animal nature than hunger, thirst, sickness, and all the other pains of life and of death itself, put together."

Gina Valente, child prodigy, who could play the piano before she could talk, is appearing in the American Civic Opera Company's presentation of Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta" Thursday evening at William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium.

Gina began her musical career at the age of 18 months, when without any encouragement she clambered upon a piano stool and offered a passable version of a topical tune of the day.

Astonished at her musical ability, her father, Maestro Ciro Valente, a well known composer and musician in his own right, encouraged and fostered her talent until a year later she was able to render a commendable version of any composition she had heard.

Then the triumph began. At a piano contest in Aeolian Hall, in New York City, she was adjudged one of the superior pianists. Her radio debut was under the auspices of Nick Kenny on whose hour she played with A. E. Alexander on Station WMCA. Paul Whiteman placed her upon one of his Sunday evening radio programs. She has appeared as a guest artist with Fred Allen and many others over Station WEAF on a coast to coast hook-up.

In 1942 the then eight year old Gina Valente made her Town Hall debut with the string section of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra at the first of the Town Hall series of Young Peoples concerts. Rudolph Ganz, the conductor who introduced her to the audience, said "that she was the youngest soloist for whom he had ever conducted; she managed all the runs, thrills, and moving passages with the unfaltering assurance of a veteran. Her touch proved to be anything but child-like for her treble notes were all strong and clear, and she can command a bass tone of considerable sonority." Last fall Gina appeared as guest soloist with the orchestra at Carnegie Hall with Judge Leopold Price conducting. The little star has also appeared in pictures for Warner Brothers and Columbia. Her artistry has elicited the praise of Fritz Kreisler who is now personally interested in her career.

Articles Are Shipped Out By Red Cross Unit

A large quota of recently completed articles has been shipped by the production rooms of the Delta County Chapter of the American Red Cross, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. R. W. Haddock, production chairman.

The shipment includes the following: 50 bathrobes, 170 bed-room slippers, 10 lap covers, 32 pillows, 160 bed sheets, 38 pairs pajamas, 10 bed jackets, 100 bed-side bags, 120 pneumonia jackets. Knitted garments: 25 sweaters, 25 pairs O. D. gloves, 15 mufflers, 25 helmets, 10 pairs socks.

There is an urgent call for kit bags for members of the armed forces and volunteer workers for this particular article are asked to report at the production rooms on Mondays and Wednesdays. Many boys are being sent overseas, it was emphasized, and each one is presented with a kit bag. In order to meet this great emergency demand it is necessary that more volunteers report and that each one give as much time as possible to the work.

Knitters are asked to finish and return garments on which they are now working as soon as possible in order that another shipment may be made within the next two weeks.

May Yet Register
New Clinic Cases
Until 3 O'Clock

Registrations for the orthopedic clinic for crippled children can be made until 3 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced yesterday by Dr. M. A. Elstein, county health director. Parents wishing to have their children examined today are asked to telephone No. 884 before the deadline.

Dr. Eugene Elzinga, orthopedic surgeon of Marquette, is conducting the examinations, which began yesterday. On the first day 47 admitted cases went through the clinic, and five new cases were registered. Upwards of 100 children are expected to attend today.

Try bathing your feet in warm water to which two tablespoons of ordinary household ammonia have been added.

Helen L'Heureux
Is the Bride of Corporal Burnett

Miss Helen Mae L'Heureux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L'Heureux, 1304 Second avenue north, became the bride of Cpl. Gordon A. Burnett, of the United States Army Air Force, son of Henry Burnett of this city, at a ceremony which took place at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Anne's church.

The service was solemnized by Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Guertin, who was celebrant of the nuptial high mass. Red roses were arranged on the altars with the lighted candles.

Mrs. Thomas St. Jacques sang "Ave Maria" at the offertory of the mass and she also played the bridal processional and recessional.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burnett of Flat Rock, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, attended the couple.

The bride wore a suit of grey wool, with a close fitting velvet hat to match and her flowers were a corsage of pink roses. As her only jewelry she wore a chain and medal, the gift of her aunt, Sister Mary Yvonne, of Chicago. Mrs. Burnett's suit was of forest green and she wore a small veiled hat and a corsage of mums. Mrs. L'Heureux, mother of the bride, wore a navy ensemble.

WAC Recruiters
Here This Week
Conducting Drive

Cpl. Alma Robinson and Sgt. George M. Phillips, recruiters for the Women's Army Corps, will be in Escanaba for the remainder of the week with offices in the post-office building.

The recruiters will be at the postoffice each day from 11 o'clock until 5 o'clock, and in the evening they may be contacted at the House of Ludington.

Enlistment in the WAC offers an important opportunity of service to the country and a chance to choose an army job to back up the fighting men. It is emphasized. Any woman interested, who is between 20 and 50 years of age, a citizen if the United States, without dependents under 14 years of age, and able to meet the educational requirements, is urged to visit the recruiters at the post-office or at the hotel.

The army service forces, ground and air forces need many more WAC to help the men on the fighting front. The medical department is in need of women as technicians, stenographers, assistants and aides.

Members of the Women's Army Corps are now entitled to the same rights and benefits accorded their fighting brothers in arms. Under the recently approved "GI Bill of Rights," a WAC will be in line to receive many additional benefits. Some of the benefits are: a bonus discharge of $200 or $300, tuition while finishing college or school up to $500 per year and $50 a month for living expenses, loans at a low rate of interest for buying a home or business property.

Keep salt, pepper, sugar bowl, salad dressing, napkins and preserves on a tray and take them to the table in one trip.

ily members was held at the home of the bride's parents, the tiered wedding cake centering the appointments, with an attractive arrangement of autumn flowers. The couple left, immediately following the reception, on a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, the bride wearing a fall green and tan ensemble for traveling.

Cpl. Burnett, who recently returned from two years service in the South Pacific area, is leaving for Miami, Fla., where he will be stationed, and his bride will join him there later.

Guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Louis, of Gladstone, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Michigan Bell, anticipating high demand, plans expansion and improvement

IN ANTICIPATION of favorable business conditions following reconversion, Michigan Bell foresees post-war expenditures of as much as $120,000,000 within a five-year period.

More buildings, cables, central office apparatus, and telephones are needed. But we cannot undertake to provide them until war needs are reduced greatly. Today the armed forces take about all the communications equipment that can be made.

Dependent on business conditions, materials, manpower, and funds, the program is being engineered to:

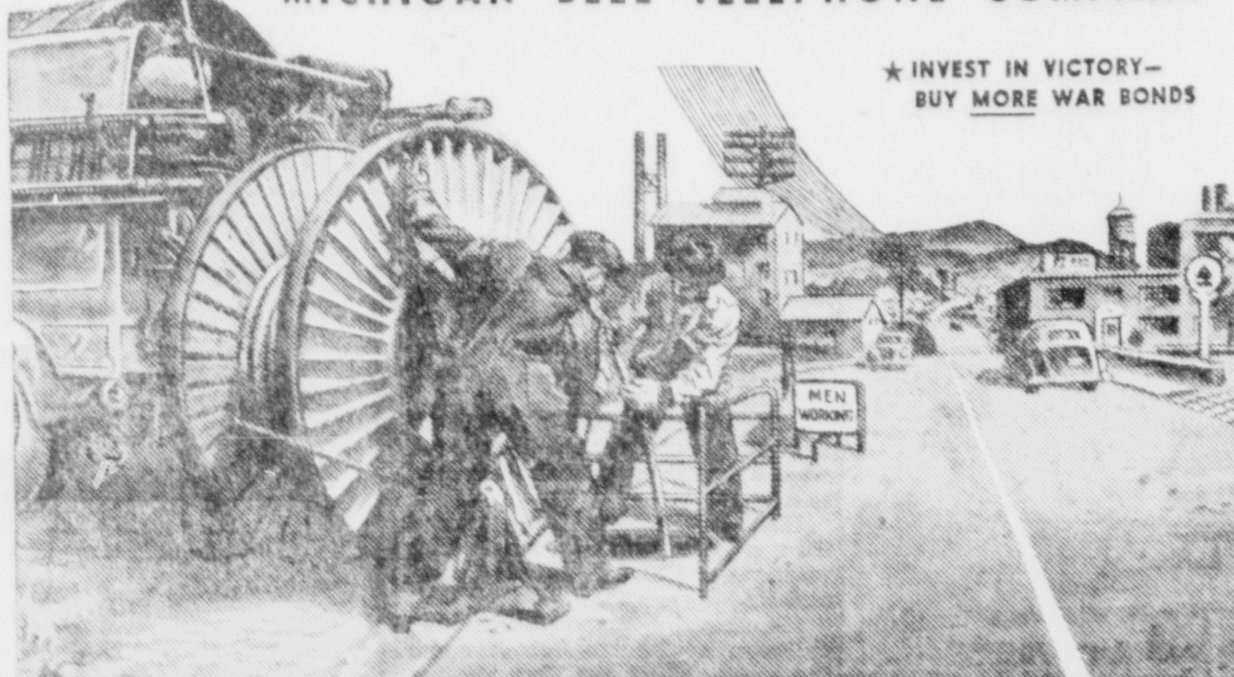

1. Provide service to nearly 90,000 persons who now can't get it.
2. Expand both urban and rural service to meet anticipated demand, and to restore safe margins of facilities.
3. Assure prompt completion of Long Distance calls for the growing number of users.
4. Carry out plant betterments suspended because of the war.

Such a program of additions will be necessary if the Company is to continue to furnish the grade of service the public expects and is to take its place in an expanded national economy.

We shall welcome the day when that program can be started.

IRISH LEADING FOOTBALL POLL

New York, Oct. 10 (AP)—The midwest dominates the first Associated Press football poll of the 1944 campaign—just as that sector grabbed the honors in each of the previous eight seasons the nation's sports writers picked the leaders.

The selections, announced today, find Notre Dame's 1943 national champions pacing the pack. The Irish, one-sided winners over Pitt and Tulane, piled up an even 800 points, including 34 first place ballots from the 93 writers.

Ohio State, easy victor over Missouri and Iowa, and 1942 national king, wound up in eighth place in the nation-wide picture—but as the No. 1 team in the civilian list. All the other squads in the top 10 are service teams, or are bolstered by service material.

North Carolina Pre-flight, which beat Navy and Duke on successive Saturdays, finished second to the Irish with 605 points, and 24 first-place nominations, while Army's powerhouse, although put at the peak by only three writers, took third place with 575.

While the midwest was taking the laurels with four teams among the leading 10 (Notre Dame 1, Great Lakes 5, Purdue 7, and Ohio State 8) the east was close with three nominees (Army 3, Navy 6, and Pennsylvania 9.)

The south rated two leaders in North Carolina Pre-flight (2) and Georgia Tech (10), while the southwest grabbed the other spot with Randolph Field of Texas in fourth place. First of the west teams to gain mention was the Second Air Force of Colorado, which took 16th place.

Michigan Building Up Pass Defense

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 10 (AP)—Michigan's football team, which stopped Minnesota's high-powered running attack last week at Minneapolis, today set about building a defense against the Western conference's leading pass pitcher, Johnny Yungwirth of Northwestern.

Yungwirth, 160-pound freshman halfback from Fond du Lac, Wis., completed 10 of 18 throws for 132 yards in Northwestern's only Big Ten game so far, a 7-6 losing effort against Wisconsin.

The Wildcats tackle Michigan here next Saturday in a game that probably will attract the season's high attendance to Michigan stadium. Yungwirth's throwing definitely is expected to be a vital factor in the Northwestern offense and Coach Fritz Crisler intends for Michigan to be prepared. Lengthy pass defense sessions are on the Wolverine practice slate for all week.

Michigan, which didn't have to use its passes to beat Minnesota, expects to do considerable pitching against the Wildcats. Halfback Bill (Squeak) Culligan, Michigan's No. 1 passer, now ranks seventh among ten rushing leaders, a fact that yields added impetus to his effectiveness as a passer.

Culligan, who came out of the Gopher clash with a twisted ankle, worked out today and should be in shape to start Saturday. End Bruce Hilkene, who was nursing a bruised hand yesterday, was improved enough for scrimmage duty.

X-rays revealed today that Don Spink, Rochester, N. Y., reserve fullback, suffered a broken ankle in Monday's workout and will be out for the remainder of the season.

Sgt. Joe Louis Back, Eager For Defense Of His Title Again

BY FRITZ HOWELL

New York, Oct. 10 (AP)—Sgt. Joe Louis returned home today from a six-month boxing exhibition tour of the European and African war theaters, and disclosed that he took a couple of punches at the Germans as well as at the chins of his sparring partners.

The heavyweight champion, weighing 215 pounds—or seven more than when he met Abe Simon in his last title defense in 1942—said he visited the 92nd Division on the Italian front and pulled the lanyard on several field guns firing on the Gothic Line.

On his 14-month boxing tour, which included eight months of camp-visiting in the U. S., Louis appeared before 2,000,000 fighting men, said Capt. Fred Maly, conductor of the tour and former sports editor of the San Antonio Express.

The champion gave 123 exhibitions in this country, 42 in England, 27 in Italy and four in Africa. He returned today by plane, the same mode of travel by which he covered the war fronts.

The champ said:

"I expect to defend my title, if the war ends soon enough."

And what would be "soon enough?"

"Next week would be soon enough," Joe laughed. "No kidding, I think I'm good for a long time. The army is giving me a break with this tour, keeping me close to the game. And lots of fellows have been good heavyweights at 35 or 36."

Louis was 30 years old last May. He said he expected the armed services to develop plenty of good fighters who will be in ring action after the war.

The Sports Parade

The world series is over with the Cardinals enthroned once more as world champions while the familiar refrain, "I told you so," is being echoed on street corners all over the nation. Never was a world series team the overwhelming sentimental favorites as the Browns were this year, nor never was a team the favorites on cold logic as were the Cards in '44. Nearly everyone wanted the Browns to cop the flag while realizing that the Cards were almost certain to do so.

The Browns had only a good pitching staff to rely upon, while the Cards had pitching, hitting power and an infield that far overshadowed the Browns' inner defense.

The climax of the world series was reached, at least as far as I am concerned, in the sixth inning of the fifth game with the teams divided on games won, two each, and with the Cards leading, 1-0. The Browns loaded the bases with one out and then Mort Cooper whiffed Al Zarilla and Mark Christman to retire the threat. Sewell's decision against a pinch hitter for Zarilla who batted a putty 100 for the series backfired and Zarilla watched the third strike sail by. When Christman also took the third strike, the Browns' hopes, drooped and never again were revived.

A member of the Press staff who is only mildly interested in baseball picked up a telephone receiver to answer an incoming call after the first game of the series. "Who won the baseball game?" queried the voice on the other end of the line. "St. Louis, 2-1," answered the scribe. The voice on the other end of the line, still patient, repeated, "Yeah, but who won?" "St. Louis won," said the scribe, now beginning to get a little miffed. "Sure, St. Louis won. I know that, but which team?" queried the voice. "The St. Louis Browns," replied the scribe. And so the voice offered his thanks and hung up the receiver.

Hunting And Fishing

By Sid Gordon

In baseball, a triple play is something unusual. It is something for the records in baseball, but the hunter and fisherman often makes a triple play in the woods, and he does it unassisted.

I shall never forget the first "triple play" I made. It was one of those late September days when the early frost had colored the leaves and the ruffed grouse season was open, in the upper Peninsula of Michigan.

One hour after I left home, in the middle of the morning, I was walking down a long-muzzled logging road which fairly shouted "partridge" at me. The double barreled 12 gauge shot gun was cradled in my arm and I had no dog.

I had picked up four birds, and missed many more because I was walking too fast. It's a habit of mine hunters out of 10 have, in every new area they hunt. The first hunt, to anyone who likes the woods, is almost always too fast a hunt.

Because we expect to return again and again if it proves good country, this is not a bad habit to have. I was busy cramming my memory with landmarks, likely cover, feeding spots for the birds and the lay of the land generally.

Six birds flushed wildly ahead and to my right. They all flew off a ridge of beechnut and mixed hardwood and balsam. I studied down and hit the ridge at a hog's back. The hog's back, the depression in the ridge, was quite deep.

I glanced at the ground for sign, a good habit for every hunter I think. At my feet there was a well beaten path, as clean and almost as wide as a cowpath. I saw where many deer used to run into this runway from two directions, along the lower fringe of the ridge and along and through a cedar swamp from another direction.

I climbed the ridge and studied the country below me. There, to my left, a little springhole nestled against the ridge and spread to the cedar, tamarack and spruce "flat." Forgotten were the partidge, the tree bark and wood from some rotting stumps and logs.

With the handful of fat grubs, I made my way to the spring hole. My first throw was bad, but the next landed right alongside of a water logged pine in the water. There was a truly beautiful swirl as a big brook trout hit that white grub.

What a triple play that was! Good partridge country, a sure spot for deer and, the very next season, a wonderful brook trout springhole. I could have shot two mallards, but what fisherman would destroy that pair which would nest there again in the spring and proudly lead their brood around him, while he was fishing?

MARTIN J. HYLO

Funeral services for Martin J. Hylo, 60, E. Munising, who died Saturday night as the result of being struck by a car will be held Thursday at 9:00 A. M., in the Sacred Heart church where a solemn requiem high mass will be sung by Rev. O. J. LaMothe.

The body was removed from the Beaulieu and Madison funeral home to the family residence Monday, where it will remain until the time of the funeral.

Escorts will be Martin Basak, Henry Lasak, Joseph Lasak, Stanley Pawlicki, Jacob Woodaz, and Sam Golisek.

Interment will be made in Maple Grove cemetery.

Driver Bound Over In Fatal Accident

Following a coroner's inquest and preliminary hearing in justice court, Virgil Wright of Munising was bound over to circuit court for trial on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with the death of Martin Hylo, 60. Bond was set at $500, which Wright furnished, and he will appear in circuit court during the term which opens Oct. 16.

Police officers said that Hylo was struck by a car driven by Wright Saturday night as Hylo was walking toward the tannery near the Foster addition.

NEW LICENSE DISPLAYED

A sample 1945 license plate was received yesterday by Wesley Ward, local license dealer. The 1945 license will again be one plate and will have a silver background with black letters.

MUCH CLOTHING GATHERED

The old clothes collection sponsored by the Sacred Heart church, Munising was very successful with over a ton of clothing being collected. It was announced Sunday by Rev. O. J. LaMothe, local pastor. He wishes to thank all those who contributed clothing toward this worthy cause and also thanks members of the C.Y.O. who collected the clothing and helped to sort and pack them. After being sent to Iron Mountain the clothing will be turned over to the government and sent overseas to needy countries.

BRIEFS

Pvt. George Beaudette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beaudette was recently wounded in France and is now in an English hospital.

A pastry sale will be held today Oct. 11 at the Michigan Gas building beginning at 12:00 under the auspices of the Presbyterian Guild.

John O'Brien of Detroit arrived home Monday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Brien.

Bernard Brisson, S/2c, stationed at Great Lakes, spent the weekend with his mother and friends.

Lt. Robert Derube, U. S. Marine Corps, is spending a leave here with relatives and friends.

Communication

Conscientious Objectors
C. P. S. Camp No. 135,
Germfask, Michigan,
October 7, 1944.

Editor,
Escanaba Daily Press
Escanaba, Michigan.
Sir:

During the past week, two items have appeared in the Daily Press concerning Corbett Bishop, a conscientious objector from Germfask camp. Since these items were both rather sketchy, as a personal friend of Corbett I would like to explain to your readers, through this letter, the reasons for his desertion from camp and, upon arrest, his still continuing hunger strike.

In no sense should Corbett be dismissed as simply a "crackpot." Prior to induction into Civilian Public Service, he had been a graduate student of Chemistry at the University of Wisconsin. After leaving this profession, he had owned and successfully operated a book store in New York City. His background, therefore, is that of a normal and well-adjusted person.

During the early 1930's, Corbett served in the United States Armed Forces. It was during this period that he gained the conviction that war and the taking of human life are wrong.

We who have lived with him in these camps can readily attest to the depth and sincerity of his religious beliefs. In his three years as a CPS assignee, Corbett came more and more to feel that the enslaving of an individual either by a single person or a group is evil in the sight of God and not to be endured. He became resolved not to assist his captors in carrying out this enslavement through any act of co-operation on his part. Hence, when the F. B. I. arrested him for leaving camp, they had to literally pick him up and carry him into his cell. And, further, to avoid the embarrassment of seeing him carried bodily into the courtroom, the Judge in New York City arranged to go to Corbett's cell to arraign him.

If you could come to know the strong religious character of Corbett and the insistence he places on living in accordance with his convictions, you would more readily understand why, having come to the conclusion that the forced confinement of a human being whether in a camp for conscripts or in a prison is evil in the sight of God, Bishop had to maintain his integrity by complete non-cooperation with his captors.

The principle of non-cooperation with evil is not new to the history of our nation. Garrison and Thoreau, two Americans well respected and honored by their countrymen today, both based their actions on this very principle. Surely if there is any wrongdoing involved in the situation now unfolding at the Kalamazoo jail, the wrong lies not with the imprisoned but with a penal code which forces a religious man into such extremities in order that he might continue to live in accordance with his convictions and his God.

Sincerely,
Nicholas Migliorino.

GEO. THEOBALD DIES SUDDENLY

Resided Here Past Five Years; Formerly Of Marinette

George Theobald, 85, died of a heart attack at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beauchamp, 309 North Twentieth street.

Mr. Theobald was born in L'Anse on August 19, 1859, and his marriage to Agnes McCue took place there in 1884. He spent the greater part of his life in L'Anse.

In 1920 he moved to Marinette where he was employed as a millwright at the paper mill. Following his retirement, he moved to Detroit where he remained for seven years. For the past five years he and Mrs. Theobald, who celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on April 28, of this year, had lived in Escanaba with Mr. and Mrs. Beauchamp.

He was a member of St. Anne's church.

Surviving are his widow, one son, Joseph Arthur, of Price, Utah; three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Beauchamp of this city; one brother, Matt Walker of Cleveland, O.; ten grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Boyce funeral home for preparation for burial. Arrangements for the services will be completed today.

DESTROYER LOST

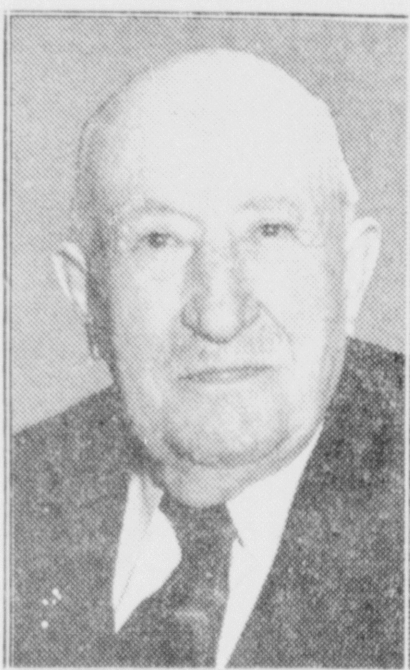

London, Oct. 10 (AP)—The British destroyer Rockingham, formerly the U. S. S. Swasey, has been lost, the admiralty announced tonight. The four-stack was one of 50 destroyers the United States sent to Britain in 1940.

UPSET STOMACHS YIELD INCHES OF GAS AND BLOAT

"I was so full of gas I was afraid I'd burst. Sour, bitter substance rose up in my throat from my upset stomach after meals. I got ERB-HELP, and it worked inches of gas and bloat from me. Waistline is way down now. Meals are a pleasure. I praise Erb-Help to the sky."—This is an actual testimonial from a man living right here in Escanaba.

ERB-HELP is the new formula containing medicinal juices from 12 Great Herbs; these herbs cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering—Get Erb-Help. Sold by all Drug Stores here in Escanaba.

TAKEN BY DEATH—George Theobald, 85, died Tuesday morning at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beauchamp, 309 North Twentieth street, where he had made his home for the past five years. Mr. Theobald was born in L'Anse and spent most of his life there.

Elks Meet Tonight To Plan Initiation

Final plans for a big initiation ceremony on October 25 will be made tonight at a regular meeting of Escanaba Lodge 354, B. P. O. Elks. The business session tonight has been called for 8:15 p. m. by N. T. Stephenson, exalted ruler, and will be followed by a dutch lunch.

The district deputy grand exalted ruler will attend the initiation meeting of the lodge October 25 and will make his annual inspection of the lodge at that time.

Arrangements are being completed for a Halloween dance to be held at the Elks clubrooms the evening of October 31. The event will be for Elks and their friends, and the traditional Halloween holiday color will be injected. Chet Morton is general chairman. Music for the dance will be by Chet Marrier's orchestra.

Riga Is Cut Off By Soviet Army said the Russians were themselves using a battering ram of more than 1,000 tanks and 1,000,000 men in the great offensive that swept westward to the sea.

Already the pressure on East Prussia was mounting. A strong contingent of the Soviet forces that achieved the initial breakthrough in Lithuania wheeled southward and strengthened the Russian positions along the Niemen river today with capture of Taurage, 20 miles northeast of the East Prussian city of Tilsit.

Still another Russian force fought toward East Prussia and captured the Lithuanian town of Sakiai, seven miles from the East Prussian border and 33 miles northeast of Kaunas. Somewhat overshadowed by the tremendous gains on the northern position of the front, the Soviet armies in the south also reported continuing victories.

One Soviet column reached the Hungarian city of Debrecen and was fighting in the outskirts of that communications point, the Soviet communiqué said. Debrecen controls international routes into Czechoslovakia, Poland and Romania. Debrecen, 13 miles south of Debrecen, was taken in that drive.

GERMAN CITY IS ENCIRCLED BY U. S. GUNS

ing broadcast by the Allies tonight to the people in all parts of Germany. Don Whitehead of the Associated Press explained in a field dispatch:

"The American high command wants them to know the story of Aachen—wants them to know that if their cities are to be made into fortresses then they will be destroyed. What happens to Aachen will set the pattern for every city inside Germany."

All Sides Open

If the Nazis hope to turn Aachen—also known as Aix-La-Chapelle—into another Cassino they are doomed to disappointment, Whitehead said. There are no heights guarding the German city, and American attacks can be made from all sides instead of being channeled head-on against a strongly entrenched foe.

Although the Nazis have been counterattacking desperately for days in an effort to break the jaws of the American pincers closing around Aachen, each of their thrusts had been thrown back with bloody losses. There were six of these futile attacks yesterday and four last night.

Aachen, seat of Charlemagne's ancient empire, has been under attack by Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges' First army troops since Sept. 15, when they burst across the German frontier below the city. In the intervening weeks the Americans have deployed strong forces 15 miles north and south inside Germany and have driven wedges through the original Siegfried line dangerously near the industrial Ruhr.

Although today's ultimatum to the Aachen commander declared the city was surrounded, a field dispatch tonight said there still was a narrow corridor open to the northeast, swept by American machinegun and mortar fire.

Metz Battle Static
Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's U. S. Third army, springing forward between Nancy and Metz in northeastern France, eliminated an enemy bulge and seized new positions running from Fresnoy-Saunoy, 15 miles north, and east of Nancy, to Cheminot, 18 miles due north. Patton's forces had captured at least 3,555 Germans in the past three days.

The situation inside Fort Driant, across the Moselle river from Metz, where for nearly a week American troops had been fighting a desperate close-quarter battle with a determined Nazi garrison, remained static, a field dispatch said. American artillery laid a terrific barrage on Fort Marival, a mile north of Fort Driant, silencing its guns.

Farther south Lt. Gen. Alexander Patch's Seventh army advanced two miles east of Epinal and drove the Nazis from the towns of Laveline and Herp-Elmont.

Canadian forces, who in an amphibious operation early yesterday established a bridgehead behind the enemy's lines on the shores of the Schelde estuary in Holland, were reported in a field dispatch to be firmly planted and beyond fear of being thrown out. Their bridgehead now extended almost three miles east from the village of Hoedplaat and almost two miles inland.

In the Hurtgen forest southeast of Aachen American troops fought slowly forward through mined roads and against prepared positions and cut the Duren-Monschau road southwest of Hurtgen town. The fighting there was described as "hard and bitter."

It was announced that six Allied armies on the western front had captured at least 563,928 prisoners since the invasion of France June 6.

Delta Gets $4,377 For Snow Removal

Lansing, Oct. 10 (AP)—The state highway department said today 33 counties will share in distribution of a special $200,000 fund for snow removal this winter, compared with 74 counties last winter.

Allocations, the announcement said, will include:

Alger county, $5,325; Baraga, $4,218; Chippewa, $14,304; Delta, $4,377; Dickinson, $3,046; Gogebie, $5,054; Houghton, $11,674; Iron, $4,006; Keweenaw, $1,595; Luce, $4,419; Mackinaw, $5,304; Marquette, $11,591; Ontonagon, $6,438; Schoolcraft, $3,979.

TRAINING SCHOOL CLOSES

Ludington, Mich., Oct. 10, (AP)—Lt. (j.g.) E. S. Mittelman, USCGR, said today the Pere Marquette training school would close at the end of the present 12 week course, which ends in about six weeks. In two years approximately 1,200 Coast Guardsmen have been trained in steam machinist's mate work.

The fighting there was described as "hard and bitter."

It was announced that six Allied armies on the western front had captured at least 563,928 prisoners since the invasion of France June 6.

without American confirmation, that two U. S. carriers were destroyed a week ago off Halmahera Island, some 300 miles south of the Philippines. The broadcast recorded by FCC, also claimed a destroyer was sunk and a cruiser and destroyer damaged Sunday at Marcus Island.

There were no official reports on the tense military situation in China's vital southeast territory as the Chinese commemorated the 33rd anniversary of Sun Yat Sen's revolution that marked the birth of the republic.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek predicted "the coming year will not only bring final victory but also will witness the success of our national revolution." He said vast Chinese territories were untouched by the Japanese invaders and disclosed that some 5,000,000 Chinese soldiers still are on fighting fronts with 400,000 regulars operating east of the railway lines that reach from Peiping to Canton. The latter troops, he declared, "are capable of delivering massive blows against the enemy."

The Japanese have been seeking to gain complete control of the rail lines for three reasons: To cut China in two; to seal off the China coast against expected American invasions; and to backstop her sea supply lines between north and south China.

Last reports Monday on the military situation placed Japanese spearheads only 25 miles from strategic Kweilin, capital of Kwangsi province, and in the northwestern suburbs of Foochow, last major seaport held by the Chinese. Earlier the Japanese claimed capture of the port city.

News From Men In The Service

Appreciation of Kit Bag Told In Flyer's Letter

Delta County Chapter of the American Red Cross has received the following letter of appreciation from Cpl. Joseph W. McCloskey, of the armed forces, now in foreign service:

"Dear Madam:
"A line to say a sincere thank you for the fine duffle-utility bag and its contents donated by your Chapter for the flyers who in a few hours will wing their way from the shore they'd rather stay on than any other."

"Many of us have no time to express our appreciation by written note but it is being done here, verbally. So, in my own thank you, may I include the many others who feel a little brighter now having the realization that others are thinking of them and their comfort when what they cherish most is to be left behind."

"Thank your many donors for us and the good women who spent their hours in preparing the bundles, so thoughtfully."

"Our sincere thanks to you all for your kindness. Keep up your splendid work, regardless of the length of the war, and those who are about to enter the fray will have confidence in the backing and support, so that they may not feel the war is but a passing sport and they, the later contestants when all is in vain."

"Your zealous and unremitting work and constant prayers will do much toward ending the conflict and granting peace and mercy to

Iron Mountain Men Accused Of Aiding Disorderly Houses

Grand Rapids, Oct. 10 (AP)—William Strong, 36, of Spread Eagle, Wis., who with his brother, Ward Strong, 33, of Iron Mountain, is accused of supplying disorderly houses with employees in Wisconsin and Michigan, has been removed to the western Michigan federal district for prosecution after a removal hearing in Milwaukee, District Attorney Joseph F. Deeb disclosed today.

The two brothers are held under $10,000 bond each which they failed to supply. Four women, taken in custody as material witnesses, are under $5,000 bond each.

Gasoline Powers the Attack... Don't Waste a Drop!

Mom doesn't want cool weather to catch the family car unprepared. She knows that this year a fall change-over is more important than ever before.

These days, Mom shows a lot of foresight in taking care of the car. And why not? Any motorist—man or woman—can keep a car running right, running longer, and running farther on every gallon of gasoline. Just take it to a Standard Oil Dealer. He's trained in wartime car-saving service.

Remember, it's going to be a long time before you can replace your car. Don't neglect it.

Follow this 3rd-War-Year Service Guide and keep your car at its best always.
